Moscow Asks Tito's Head As War Claimed Imminent

By Edward M. Korry

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 22.—(UP)—Moscow published a demand for Marshal Tito's death today as the Russian-Yugoslav rift steadily widened.

The Yugoslav press struck at the Soviets with a charge of espionage.

The press of the two countries traded blows after the two governments exchanged bluntly-worded notes over the week-end.

The Soviet note, delivered on Saturday, threatened "effective measures" to protect Soviet citizens in Yugoslavia. The Yugoslav reply, published yesterday, accused the Russians of double-crossing Tito in his dispute with Austria.

The Moscow newspaper Pravda, organ of the Russian Communist party, published the demand for Tito's execution in a three-column article signed by Bedri Spachiu, secretary of the Albanian Communist party.

Publication of the two Russian notes and Yugoslav counter-charges revealed to the Yugoslav people for the first time the seriousness of the rift with Russia.

WAR POSSIBLE

British newspapers in London warned that the situation between Russia and Yugoslavia could explode into war. Radio Moscow continued to broadcast a long series of dispatches describing reaction to the latest Soviet note to Yugoslavia.

Answering the Russian charge that Yugoslavia was imprisoning Soviet citizens, Borba said they were jailed because they were

WAR MEDAL LITTLE LATE

GREENWICH, N.Y., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Ralph Hastings, a former Marine, has received a silver star for gallantry in action, and he thinks he probably rates another for patience.

The medal, received last week, was awarded "for gallantry in action against the enemy in France on Oct. 4, 1918."

Finnish Strikers May Defy Reds

HELSINKI, Finland, Aug. 22.—(UP)—Government officials said today that a back-to-work movement was growing among Finland's 150,000 strikers despite Communist efforts to keep the country paralyzed with a general strike.

Several groups among the strikers have voted to return to work, including building trades workers, who form the largest single group in the country-wide strike, officials said.

More than 23,000 of some 25,000 striking lumbermen in northern Finland have voted against the strike, a Socialist union official said.

Record Tremors Rock B.C. Coast

Chimneys Topple As Quake Is Felt Even in Jasper

VANCOUVER, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Tumbled chimneys today appeared to be the most severe damage resulting from Canada's worst recorded earthquake that rippled through the Northern Pacific Coast area.

It was recorded as stronger than Ecuador's recent disastrous one or the quake that levelled San Francisco in 1906.

Yet no more serious reports were received as British Columbia, parts of Alaska and Washington and Oregon states probed for day-after effects.

Officials said the epicentre being far out to sea likely was the reason.

HUGE FISSURES

Brunt of the attack was felt by the Queen Charlotte Island groups where residents said the ground fissured in some areas with cracks up to 50 feet long, six inches wide and "too deep to see the bottom."

Graham Island residents in the Charlotte group just across from Prince Rupert, B.C., 500 miles up-coast said they spent the night fully clothed. Nor did they sleep.

The seismograph at Victoria, B.C.'s observatory, said the shock may have been the worst since 1946 when Courtenay, B.C., was hard hit. Then the indicator of the seismograph jumped right off but precautions taken later prevented a like happening this time.

FOUR HOURS LONG

Observatory officials said the shocks continued for four hours after being recorded first at 9.03:12

Two Hotels To Be Built By City Men

Two groups of Edmonton business men today appear in line for the honor of being first to ease the city's critical hotel shortage.

Work on a 50-room hotel on an empty basement at 104 street and Whyte avenue is planned to get under way this fall.

Mayor H. D. Ainlay also said today work will start early next spring on a three-storey, 120-room hotel on the southwest corner of 108 street and Jasper avenue.

LOCAL INVESTORS

Both projects are being promoted by Edmonton business men.

Plans were submitted today to the city building inspector for the 50-room structure on the South Side, to be known as the Gardner hotel.

Mayor Ainlay says all arrangements are completed for the Jasper Avenue building, and that the promoters will make a full statment to press and radio within the next few days.

"They have assured me everything is aboslutely definite, but it's a matter of not starting construction so late in the fall. They will definitely begin early in the spring.

"The promoters agreed this morning that I should announce the building and location."

Land at the southwest corner of 108 street and Jasper avenue was sold to Alberta Investments Ltd. last spring, with the usual stipulation that building start by September 30. This date has been extended to next spring, Mayor Ainlay said.

Plans have been completed for the first two storeys, but type of construction is not definite, according to the mayor. It will be either brick or reinforced concrete.

While three storeys will be built initially, provision will be made for adding two more later.

STATEMENT DENIED

H. B. Armstrong, reportedly central figure in the deal, says the mayor was not authorized to make any announcement whatever.

"We are not making any announcement until everything is all set. And the city is still not definite about what our taxes will be. After all, we're the ones who will have to pay."

Mr. Armstrong said his group doesn't want to get into a lot of publicity and wind up in the same situation as promoters of other allegedly-going-to-be-built hotels in Edmonton.

Movie Assault Gets $50 Rap

A Nisku man was fined $50 in police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent assault.

Lawrence Breen, of Nisku, was arrested Saturday when a young woman complained to the management of a downtown theatre that he had made indecent advances to her while occupying a seat next to hers.

Breen stated he had been drinking and did not recall the incident clearly.

Weatherman Happy Here

"Things are going to be just grand," he gleefully forecasted.

Continuing he said that although there was a trace of rain in the city last night none was in sight for today or tomorrow.

"You know, it's going to be nice and sunny with one or two cloudy intervals. But that's all," he said.

High forecast today is 75 with an overnight low of 55.

Whitecourt and Grande Prairie were not quite so lucky.

During the past two days more than an inch of rain has fallen in Whitecourt and three-quarters of an inch in Grande Prairie.

WOMAN PAYS VISIT HARD WAY

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Eva Russell, 36, decided to pay a surprise visit to a friend. It was.

She found Eugenia Chitty under the bed staring in alarm at the headlights and grille of a car—Mrs. Russell's—which had just plowed through the brick wall.

The Chitty woman said she was sleeping on the floor because it was cooler there. As for the woman driver, a novice, she said she just forgot to turn a corner.

15 Suspects Quizzed In Sex Attacks

City police tracked down 15 suspects in connection with Thursday's sex attack on a two-year-old girl in South Side park but all were released after questioning.

The morality squad is following down all leads as telephone calls pour in from an alarmed public.

Police were confident they had found their man Sunday when a suspect was picked up on the Low Level bridge.

FLED POLICE

The man who answered the description of the wanted pervert, began to run as soon as the prowler car stopped. When caught he exclaimed to the officers:

"I didn't mean any harm! I didn't mean any harm! I'll pay you anything you like. I'll pay you a thousand dollars."

When brought into the station for questioning, however, he was able to satisfy morality detectives as to his innocence.

SEARCH PRESSED

The city-wide search for the wanted man continues today with detectives of the morality division detailed exclusively to the investigation. All members of the force have been supplied with a description of the man and warned to be on the lookout for him.

The pervert is wanted for attacks on small girls which occurred August 18 and August 11, exactly a week apart. One girl was less than three years old, the other five.

In both cases the man picked up the children and rode off with them on a bicycle. Both suffered internal injuries requiring hospital treatment. The five-year-old was detained for several days.

SITUATION SERIOUS

Chief Constable Reg Jennings has emphasized the seriousness of the situation.

"There is no telling what this man may do if he is not apprehended," he said.

The pervert is described as being between 20 and 30 years old, wearing dark brown or black trousers and black shirt, dark brown or black felt hat, black boots and dark glasses.

He is thin, of medium height, with a pimply face.

5 Die as Car, Train Collide

DESBIENS, Que., Aug. 22.—(CP)—Five persons were fatally injured late Saturday when their taxi crashed into a Canadian National Railways train 16 miles from this northwestern Quebec village.

Dead are: Mr. and Mrs. Henri Caouette, 30 and 23 respectively; their daughter, Francine, six; Albert Fortin, 30, and Norman Larouche, 22.

All victims are residents of nearby Hebertville.

The taxi, believed to have been driven by Larouche, was struck about two miles from Chambord station. It was demolished.

The train, en route from Chicoutimi to Quebec City, was believed to be travelling about 30 to 40 miles an hour.

Para-Rescue Squad Also Leaves Here

Search for a missing Canso amphibious plane with 20 persons aboard expanded today as Edmonton joined the hunt with five planes including a Canso carrying a para-rescue squad.

The missing plane was on a flight from Churchill, Man., to Winnipeg.

Besides the crew of seven, the plane carried seven Eskimos stricken with poliomyelitis, a nurse, a newspaper man and four department of transport weather bureau men.

Last radioed word from the twin-engined Canso was picked up yesterday at 7:30 p.m., two hours after it took off from Churchill.

RCAF planes from Winnipeg and Rivers, Man., have been searching the northern air route early this morning.

PLANES IN SEARCH

Air force headquaters here said planes dispatched to join the search included three Dakota transports from 435 Squadron, one Hastings transport and a Dakota from North West Air Command "K" Flight, as well as an amphibious Canso.

Para-rescue crew is equipped with medical supplies and food for missing party if they are discovered stranded or injured.

A Winnipeg report stated the terrain over which the missing plane is believed to have flown

Ground Fire Threatens Alta. Timber

Serious ground fire is burning adjacent to heavy timber stands in the Lac la Biche area of northern Alberta, about 140 miles north east of Edmonton.

The fire is one of 16 blazes in the same area being kept under control by about 40 fire fighters of the provincial department of forests.

ALBERTA'S WORST

All are remnants of the worst blazes in Alberta's history which broke out in the area in early May. They were brought under control by crews totalling about 500 men when the fires were at their worst.

Forestry officials said today that of the 16 fires in the area only one is serious as it is burning near heavy timberland.

Small fires were also reported near the Smoky River in the Grande Prairie division and at Whitecourt, about 100 miles northwest of Edmonton. Neither of these is serious.

Hail Damage Total at Olds

OLDS, Aug. 22.—(CP)—A wide swath of hail Saturday caused 100 per cent damage to an estimated 3,750 acres of grain southeast of Olds.

The damage was caused in about two minutes, farmers said. The storm damaged swathed wheat as well as that standing in the fields.

A good start had been made in harvesting and the average yield in the storm-damaged area was estimated at about 25 bushels to the acre.

Hail damage started at the Calgary-Edmonton highway four miles south of Olds, with a mile-wide swath, which expanded to two miles by the time it reached eight miles southeast of Olds.

About .55 inches of rain fell and slight damage was caused to gardens at the town of Olds, 48 miles north of Calgary.

Severe hail damage was also reported west of Didsbury Alta.

Taxi Driver Skippers 783-Mile Land Cruise

A city taxi driver is back in town with an 'odd odyssey' to relate—and a record breaking fare bulging in his pockets.

It seems there was an American sailor in town last week who decided he'd take a little cruise. With the nearest salt water 500 miles away, the tar did the next best thing—he hired a cab.

Well stocked for the long voyage, he cast off from a parking meter in Edmonton and set out on a three-day, $160 tour of Alberta.

In command of the taxi was 'Captain' Henry Smichura of the Blue Diamond cabs.

In their circumnavigation of the province, the pair logged 783 miles and visited Calgary, Banff and Jasper.

The sailor, who comes from Los Angeles, simply explained:

"Well, I just wanted to take a little trip."

CANCER CURE NEEDED

Wealthy Philanthropist Will Help Navy Veteran

DETROIT, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The world did not pass navy veteran Ernest Gillum by in his time of trouble.

He asked for a job—any sort of a job that a man desperately ill with cancer could do in the six months he had left to live.

Today, he had found his Good Samaritan, who may be able to give more than temporary work.

A millionaire Detroit philanthropist, who asked that his name be kept a secret, read newspaper stories of Gillum's plight. Then, reported the 34-year-old photographer, the millionaire came to him and said:

"I'm going to give you a job—a good one. But first, I'm going to get you cured."

The Samaritan told him, Gillum said, that he knew of a doctor who had effected remarkable cancer cures in Europe and the United States.

So Gillum is going to the doctor this week to start a series of treatments.

South Harvest Said Half Done

Yields Are Fair to Poor But Grades Generally Good

Harvesting now is about 50 per cent completed in southeastern Alberta, the United Grain Growers said in a weekly report released last night.

The report said the yield in the western sections of the district will average about 15 bushels to the acre but the overall average for the area is expected to be lighter. Grades are generally good.

HARVESTING GENERAL

Harvesting was reported general in southwestern Alberta. Some frost damage was reported in the Okotoks and Nanton districts.

The report described other Alberta areas as follows:

Conditions—only fair in the Calgary and Hanna districts. Frost occurred throughout the area a week ago but the extent of the damage is not yet known.

Early seeded wheat and barley being swathed, and a small percentage of rye is threshed, with the yields running from three to 20 bushels an acre.

FROST AND HAIL

Frost and hail damage is reported in the Rocky Mountain House, Red Deer, and Czar regions and general conditions are only fair. With favorable weather they should improve greatly.

Crops are continuing to ripen. Harvesting in the Czar district is expected to start this week.

Grain is maturing rapidly in the Vegreville and St. Paul districts, but hail damage in the areas has resulted in only fair conditions.

EDMONTON AREA

Harvesting should be general in the Edmonton and Clyde districts this week, but hail damage, generally estimated at 20 per cent, has resulted in a serious situation.

The Peace River district reports conditions from fair to very good.

Some rye and barley is being swathed, but harvesting is not expected to become general for at least 10 days.

Coast Rocked By Record Quake

p.m. MST. After shocks came around 7 a.m. MST this morning.

They ranged as far north as Petersberg, Alaska and as far south as Portland, Ore. They touched Jasper, Alta.

In Prince George, residents ran out into the streets shouting "earthquake, earthquake" as cafe signs swung and poles swayed.

FLEE FROM THEATRE

In Ketchikan, Alaska, Americans fled a Sunday theatre. Publisher Bill Baker of the Ketchikan Herald, stepping off an upcoast steamer, said the gangplank almost snapped as the shocks persisted.

In Prince Rupert, B.C., G. A. Hunter, editor of the Daily News, said many of the city's 10,000 residents dashed into the streets in fear of their houses caving in.

In the Queen Charlottes, chimneys toppled to the ground, homes rocked on their foundations, dishes crashed to the floor and windows shattered.

SLIGHT IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver felt a slight shock but no damage was reported. In Seattle, Wash., the 42-storey Smith tower swayed dangerously.

Victoria and Vaucouver Island centres reported no tremors whatsoever.

First notice of the tremor came from Terrace, B.C., about 90 miles east of the Skeena river from Prince Rupert. It struck at 9:00 p.m., shaking houses, sending frightened citizens scurrying out of their homes, and causing parked cars to move back and forth on the streets. The shock lasted five minutes.

FELT IN JASPER

Within half hour the course of the tremor was plotted. Telephone queries to the Canadian Press provincial network of correspondents revealed its path ranged from Graham Island in the Queen Charlotte chain, about 600 miles northwest of here, to Prince Rupert on the mainland.

It roared 500 miles inland through the Skenna Valley towns of Terrace, Pacific and Hazelton, down to Smithers and Prince George, and through the upper Fraser Valley to Quesnel and Williams Lake.

The northernmost point appeared to be Petersberg, south of Ketchikan. Buildings rocked and a two-foot tidal wave swept the waterfront. Whitehorse, Yukon, and Fort St. John, 900 miles north of here, felt it.

In southern interior B.C., Kamloops reported clocks had stopped at 9:07. Chandeliers at a lodge in Jasper were set swinging.

CHIMNEYS CRUMBLE

At Massett and Port Clements, on the north and south ends of Graham Island, the effect was strongest. Dozens of brick chimneys crumbled like paper machine towers. A three-minute shock, followed by several smaller ones, tumbled dishes and broke windows.

Prince Rupert, the mainland port 500 miles northwest of here, and just across the channel from Graham Island, reported the "worst quake in history."

Mrs. Catharine M. Fraser of Terrace, first to report the quake, said she was sitting in her office "when the desk began to move."

LIKE HEAVING DECK

"At first I thought I was seeing things," she said, "but then my husband yelled that the counter was moving, too."

Standing in the street was like being "on the heaving deck of a ship in heavy seas," she reported.

She said the tremor was preceded by a two-hour storm of "ominous, rolling thunder," and heavy rain.

Flaming Vessel Threatens B.C. Harbor Area

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 22.—(CP)—Firemen battled for an hour yesterday to douse a flaming $150,000 tugboat which menaced the entire tug and fish wharves of New Westminster's huge harbor.

The fire mushroomed in the engine-room of the 126-foot Florence Filbert, largest tug on the Fraser River. Nearly 100 craft at adjacent moorings, as well as gasoline stores, were threatened when the fire got out of control.

The tug's engineer, Harry Truman, overcome by smoke, was rescued by Capt. C. Booth and Bob Foster of the New Westminster fire department who risked their lives to enter the smoke-filled boat.

Plane Missing With 20 Aboard

is bleak, rugged and dotted with lakes.

Missing plane's flight originated at Cambridge Bay, and its first purpose was delivering department of transport replacement personnel.

MIGHT BE ON LAKE

Air force officials expressed belief the Canso might have been forced down on one of the innumerable lakes spotting the north country.

The plane left Winnipeg last Monday, making various calls through the northern area. One of its calls had been to Clyde River on the north side of Baffin Island and about 1,200 miles northeast of Churchill. The weather men, due for leave, had been picked up there.

The call to Clyde was to take in a new crew for the government weather station there.

PICKS UP ESKIMOS

Yesterday the Canso, a two-engined plane, hopped from Churchill to Chesterfield Inlet, about 400 miles north of Churchill in the North-West Territories, to pick up the stricken Eskimos. Two of the Eskimos were older women, three were young girls and two were men. Five of the Eskimos were stretcher cases.

With them was Miss Constance Beattie, a 24-year-old physio-therapist from Brockville, Ont., and Toronto, who went north this spring to work for the Indian Affairs Department. The polio epidemic swept the Arctic wastes last spring, causing a large number of deaths among the Eskimos and leading to a quarantine extending thousands of square miles.

In Winnipeg, Air Commodore Costello, air officer commanding No. 11 group, RCAF, said the first search planes had been "stymied" by low clouds and rain which cut down on visibility.

The plane, as is customary, carries a portable radio transmitter known by air force men as a Gibson Girl. However, air commodore Costello said that the range of such radio sending sets is restricted and would not be heard by air force signal stations either in Winnipeg or Churchill.

"We're hoping that the search planes might be able to pick up their signal but if the plane is down on a lake, as we believe is possible, then the shoreline would cut down the strength of such a signal," he said.

Italian Film's Impact Unique in New Movies

The screen's possibilities are still boundless. They are not conditioned, as many suppose, by large financial resources or technical polish.

While these assets undoubtedly are of help to provocative and original films, as has been demonstrated on more than one occasion in Hollywood, they are not necessary.

The foreign studios have shown that imagination and simplicity count for more than munificence and complicated equipment in turning out notable pictures.

They continue to do so. The real artists of the cinema frequently work better when challenged by a poverty of production machinery.

An impressive foreign film has come to the Strand theatre in Edmonton. It has neither stars nor elaborate settings; neither good camera and recording devices, nor a big budget.

At the same time "Paisan," which is its name, looms over the plush offerings of Hollywood in no uncertain manner. It is a product of the Italian film-makers who have an imposing post-war record.

WAR PICTURE

The Strand offering is fittingly a war picture, for an aware Italian saw the conflict from many more aspects than a citizen of the other warring powers and is still horribly close to it.

It is semi-documentary in form, simply because there is little money with which to turn out films.

It is great because the gifted Roberto Rossellini, who was responsible for "Open City" has understood the fundamental aspects of modern fighting, in which civilians are on the front line, and has capitalized on his limited resources.

STRIKING SUBJECT

For those who wish to see a striking subject given new and arresting contours, it is a tremendous experience in film going.

"Paisan" is a film with an immediate and savage impact.

NOPE
HOW THE TIME CRAWLS ALONG WHEN YOU'RE SWEATING OUT A MISSION!... HEY! —HERE COMES THE BRIDE!
HELLO, SUMMER, I—
BACK AND LEARNED THEY HAD KEPT THEIR WEDDING QUIET BECAUSE ALL DRAGONFLY PILOTS ARE REQUIRED TO BE SINGLE MEN...

VETERAN PILOT Alvene Litzenberger of Pittsburgh has been "up in the air" most of his life—as a matter of fact, his log book has recorded nearly two years in hours. Started as youngster by flying paper kite with string. Now 49, Litzenberger intends to keep up in the air until U.S. licensing bureau calls halt on physical test

15,000 Hours in Air, Pilot Here for Hunt

By Victor O'Neill
Bulletin Staff Reporter

For veteran American pilot Alvene Litzenberger it would be a long haul back to the days when he strung out his first kite and wondered what kept it aloft.

It may have been the desire to find out that led him to the open cockpits of some of the earliest model "flying machines" of the United States, to try his luck pushing clouds with engines, struts, fabric and gear that were all uncertain.

But it was no 1918 wire-wheeled brakeless crate that he set down Saturday at the Edmonton airport.

The luxury, private craft he was piloting has a nominal value of $350,000.

Litzenberger, now 49 years of age, formerly was from Spokane, but now his home is at Pittsburgh—his headquarters as chief pilot for the large steel rolling industry, Mesta Machine Company.

LIKED HUNTING

Litzenberger joined the Mesta company 14 years ago because he knew something about flying and because he liked big game hunting.

His multi-millionaire chief, Lorenz Iversen, president of the company, also likes hunting and makes an annual practice of visiting the northern hinterlands of Canada and the North-West Territories.

Litzenberger frequently has been on hunting junkets with his chief, who is a pilot in his own right. Both have been in Edmonton several times on their way to northern hunting haunts.

Early last Friday Litzenberger with his co-pilot and flight engineer, John Somsen of Pittsburg, set their chief's luxurious plane down at Watson Lake, where Mr. Iversen and his guest, Willis Walker, president of Plains Airways of Cheyenne, Wyo., awaited pontoon plane transportation to Telegraph Creek.

From that point the two American industrialists intend to go by Hudson's Bay boat to Victoria Lake, just inside the Arctice Circle.

Meanwhile Pilot Litzenberger has returned to Pittsburgh with Mrs. Iversen, who accompanied the hunting party this far.

Since he first went aloft Litzenberger has accumulated more than 15,000 hours in a variety of aircraft that would fill a book.

The plane he landed on the Edmonton airport Saturday is a reconverted American A-26 bomber, produced in the latter part of the Second World War at a cost of $250,000 each.

Purchase price of the 450-mile-an-hour giant was not learned, but cost of conversion was more than $100,000, Litzenberger said.

Litzenberger is an active livestock rancher in the state of Washington, and looks forward to increasing his nucleus herd of purebred Herefords when he retires from the air.

"I'll fly as long as I can meet air standards of physical tests," he said.

PREMIER BACK

Hon. E. C. Manning, Alberta premier was back at his office in the legislative building this morning—and he wasn't unhappy about it.

As compensation for ending his three-weeks vacation at Qualicum Beach, Vancouver Island, Mr. Manning could say he made good his boast.

The Premier promised all and sundry that at least some of the big salmon running the coast waters weren't going to get away from him.

They didn't.

ON TO REGINA

Carl Berg, vice-president of Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, went today by plane to Regina for conference with union leaders there. Visit of the Edmonton labor leader is in preparation for annual meeting of Canadian Trades and Labor Congress in Calgary Sept. 15.

SHUTTLE SERIVCE

Many Southsiders are puzzled and a trifle bewildered by non-appearance of streetcars on South Side main stem, 82 avenue. Streetcars made last run on Whyte Avenue Saturday. Shuttle motorbus service is operating temporarily between 109 street and 82 avenue and 104 street prior to stringing of overhead wires for trolley buses.

Crops Pose Problems For Farmer

Second Growths Cause Decision On Crop Cutting

Farmers in Alberta face a serious harvest-time problem as a result of the unusual crop season this year.

Provincial department of agriculture oficials said today farmers will be obliged to decide whether to cut ripened grain crops now or delay cutting in the hope of harvesting second growth stands before the first frost.

Unusually dry spring resulted in spotty germination of field crops early this year. Grain which germinated at that time is now almost ripe and could be cut in most central and northern Alberta areas this week.

But July rains promoted a second growth by germinating seeds planted in the early spring and which remained dormant through the dry season.

In some fields second growth crops are now eight to 10 inches above the first growth and have headed out and are filling rapidly.

Second growth crops will require about five weeks to ripen and by that time they may be seriously damaged by frost.

HAVE DECISION

As a result farmers can either cut the first growth crops now and lose the chance of harvesting the second growth, or delay harvesting operations until the second growth has matured and risk damage of frost to both crops.

A. M. Wilson, field crops commissioner said today farmers in the black soil areas around Edmonton will likely delay harvest of oats and barley crops until the second growth is matured.

Where second growth is present in wheat crops, harvesting will likely start this week with presence of the green heads of second growth reducing the general grade of the crops.

One area particularly affected by second growth is the Westlock district, north of Edmonton.

Crops in the area were ripe a few weeks ago but are green now as a result of the rapid development of the second crop.

BEGIN THIS WEEK

In districts where second growth is less noticeable harvesting operations are expected to begin this week.

Yields of from 14 to 18 bushels an acre are expected east of Edmonton in the Lamont and Willingdon areas, with a yield of as much as 25 bushels on summerfallow.

Peace River district, where spring rains were heavier than they were in any other part of the province, yields from 18 bushels an acre upwards are expected.

Alberta Artists Get Chance in Mural Test

Provincial artists will have their chance in a new contest.

Edmonton section of the Council of Jewish Women is sponsoring a contest for a suitable mural design for the main entrance of the new $165,000 building being constructed for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mrs. L. Podersky, president of the city Council of Jewish Women, stated her organization will award a $25 prize for the winning mural and will finance its painting in the new building.

Council is also furnishing a room in the CNIB building, and has appointed a committee for blind work headed by Mrs. Ted Cristall.

OPENS NOW

Art contest opens immediately and artists in Edmonton and Northern Alberta are invited to enter.

Contest rules and other details may be obtained from W. E. Milton, executive officer of the CNIB, in the Court House building, Edmonton.

Entries should be submitted to R. W. Hedley, of the Edmonton Museum of Arts.

Contest will run for about one month, although official closing date and names of judges have not yet been announced.

FOR MAIN ENTRANCE

The mural is intended to decorate the main entrance to the new CNIB building.

Structure will include residence accommodation for 29 blind persons, occupational workshop, training and rehabilitation facilities, recreation space, club rooms and administrative offices at present located in the Court House.

New building is expected to be ready the end of October.

GOVT. DISPLAY

Next-best thing to a first-hand view of Alberta is in store for Torontonians. They will see an Alberta government display, outlining the natural resources, scenic attractions and industrial possibilities of the province, at the Canadian National Exhibition opening Friday. E. S. Bryant, Alberta director of publicity, will supervise the display at the CNE.

Catholics Planning Big Crusade

Rosary Crusade to be conducted by the Roman Catholic church in Alberta, Manitoba, British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska will open officially September 4 when a pastoral letter will be read in all churches.

This was announced today by the Edmonton committee laying plans for the crusade in Alberta.

The committee is headed by Alberta's attorney general, Lucien Maynard, who is being assisted by Judge Hugh John MacDonald of Calgary.

Early in October a cavalcade of 2,000 cars, bearing more than 8,000 people, will arrive in Edmonton from points within a 100-mile radius to attend a big rally at Clarke Stadium.

No date for the rally has been set as yet.

About 40,000 people from various parts of the province are expected to attend the rally which will be addressed by Rev. Patrick Peyton of Hollywood, California. He founded the Rosary crusades in Hollywood and later, with the help of Hollywood movie stars and a large American radio network, founded the "Family Theatre" broadcast.

The object of the crusade is to revive family prayer under the banner of "The family that prays together stays together."

Tenants Flee Brief Blaze

Tenants in the Bellamy Block 10157 100A street, were forced to flee from their beds when a fire broke out at 3.30 a.m. this morning.

Fast work by a police constable and city firemen brought the blaze under control within 27 minutes of the alarm.

The blaze was discovered by Constable A. C. McRitchie who saw smoke coming from the building. He dashed inside and roused the tenants, all of whom left the building safely.

Several doors were broken down by firemen to make sure occupants of the rooms were safely out of the building.

Smoke damage was caused to a bakery and a barber shop.

Tenants were able to return to their rooms in an hour.

New Mail Service For Suburban Area Soon

Residents of 100 Jasper Place homes will be happy to know they'll be getting their very first mail delivery tomorrow.

Post officials announced today that the first mail delivery will be made tomorrow afternoon in the area bordered by 139 and 142 street, and 103 and 106 avenues.

Area previously hasn't had mail deliveries because existing facilities didn't comply with postal regulations.

Regulations state there must be paved or gravelled walks, house and street numbers, walks from the street to houses, letter slots, etc.

City has been improving the new mail area, and one Post Office official said he was "very well satisfied" with improvements so far, to streets and sidewalks.

"The city has been doing pretty good," he told The Bulletin.

About 100 homes now comply with regulations. When further improvements are made, there will be 150 homes with new service.

Police Seek Theft Suspect

A thief last night made off with between $50 and $75 worth of cigarettes when he broke into the Peter Pan Bake Shop, 10841-124 street.

Entry was gained through a rear window from which a pane of glass was removed.

Police believe a 14-year-old escapee from Oliver Mental Institute may be responsible. The boy escaped from the institution Saturday.

Canada's development of water-power resources dates from the early French settlements at the beginning of the 17th century.

Man Who Built Alcan Highway

The man who supervised construction of the largest highway job ever undertaken—the famed Alaska highway—is retiring.

He is J. S. Bright, deputy commissioner of the U.S. bureau of public roads, who retires in Washington, D.C., on Aug. 31.

Celebrating his 71st birthday just two days before his retirement he has been an active U.S. engineer for the past 48 years.

Originally a native of San Bernardino, Calif., Mr. Bright started his career as construction engineer for the South Pacific and Santa Fe railroads in the southwestern States and Mexico.

He served later in California, Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona, organized the Hawaiian road system in the mid-1920's and since 1944 has been deputy commissioner of public roads, with headquarters at Washington, D.C.

In April, 1942, he was made district engineer of the mammoth Alaska highway, and moved his headquarters from Seattle to Edmonton.

In the following year and one-half, he employed as many as 14,000 workers at one time, using 6,000 pieces of heavy equipment to build the 1,420 miles of wilderness road, from Dawson Creek to Big Delta.

Highway was completed in October, 1943.

Carruthers, and he shows bottle of grain for proof. 20-acre crop was cut Aug. 3 and threshed exactly two weeks later on 17th. He believes warm weather in April and dry summer is responsible. Twenty-two bushel crop is only half normal.

Jasper is a Speedway

The kind of reckless driving that prevails on Jasper avenue almost every night after sundown would justify the use of every officer on the police force to make wholesale arrests.

That is not to say that every driver on Jasper after sundown is a reckless speedster.

But enough of them are reckless speedsters to menace the safety of all the rest.

In point of fact, many capable Edmonton drivers have foresworn the use of Jasper avenue after nightfall because of the driving hazards created by show-offs who are using the main artery as a speedway.

So far as the pedestrian is concerned, he takes his life in his hands every time he tries to cross that street after dark.

The speedsters come tearing along, veering wildly from one traffic lane to another, and if a pedestrian has to cross he simply must wait his chance and jump for it.

This condition, which is steadily deteriorating, is not good enough.

It is not only making a death trap of Edmonton's main highway, but it is building up a spirit of recklessness among the few wild drivers which manifests itself, at length, in every street and avenue in the city.

Rent Control Still Necessary

Political observers in Ottawa express the opinion that the federal government will definitely vacate the field of rent control when the present legislation expires next March 31st.

If the federal authority does abandon rent control without positive assurance that it will be assumed by the provinces, it will impose an intolerable burden upon the great mass of the Canadian people.

It is not hard to understand the position of the federal government in this matter.

Conditions vary so widely between one province and another that a set of regulations for the entire country is bound to be inapplicable in certain particulars in certain provinces.

Recognizing that fact, the dominion has already offered to turn over rent control to the junior governments—without any takers.

But while housing conditions have eased in some parts of Canada, notably in Montreal, they remain desperate in other parts, notably Edmonton.

So long as a housing shortage persists anywhere, rent control will be necessary in that section.

And if the provinces won't do it, the federal government must.

Revising the Statutes of Canada

What is described as a "monumental task" has been assigned to Canada's Chief Justice Thibaudeau who, with four other commissioners, will devote a year to revising the statutes of Canada.

Such a revision, it is announced, has not been undertaken for 22 years.

There seems to be some peculiar slackness in the administration of Canadian affairs when a body of law is allowed to run to seed for more than two decades.

Everybody knows that economic and social conditions have changed very rapidly during the past 20 years.

Each change of the kind demands a close scrutiny of every law on the books to make sure it conforms with the current needs of society.

Surely, instead of taking up the time of the Canadian chief justice and four important civil servants for a whole year, there should be a standing committee of parliament to constantly watch such rerecommendations at every session of parliament.

Doing it the present way is doing it the hard way and the most expensive way and the least efficient way.

Those Letters to the Editor

Any newspaper that feels itself responsible to public opinion, as The Edmonton Bulletin does, always welcomes those missives known as "letters to the editor" for two reasons.

First, because those letters to the editor usually make some of the most interesting reading in the paper.

Secondly, because it is wholesome that every shade of public opinion be given expression in a newspaper that operates along democratic lines.

The Bulletin believes that every man and every institution should have the right of formulating an opinion within, of course, the limits of decency, the law and the public weal.

For that reason, the columns of this paper are always open to any correspondent who has an idea and expresses it according to the rules laid down for such things.

For there must be rules, even in letters to the editor. And editors, being human, or nearly human, will naturally select those letters which most closely adhere to the rules.

For instance, a letter should be written on only one side of the paper and a good space should be left at the top of the first sheet for instructions to the printers.

The letter should be legibly written for even literary pearls of great price have no value when no one can make them out.

They should be briefly and concisely written. No one wants to wade through unnecessary words or fancy literary touches.

They should contain one point only. If a correspondent wants to deal with two subjects, let him write two letters.

No cryptic abbreviations should be used. The name and address of the writer should accompany each letter although these will not be printed if the writer so requests.

ON THE RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

Germans Disillusioned By Hopelessness of Future

However favorable the results of the German elections, the campaign which preceded them was proof that the Western German republic is off to a bad start. The party leaders found nothing constructive to offer the people. Aware of the universal skepticism and apathy, they drew their own conclusions regarding the reasons.

THOMPSON

Since it has not been permitted to license an outright nationalist party, the Social Democrats, the Christian Unionists and the Communists assumed that the apathy arose from this vacuum and, as the campaign developed, competed in nationalist slogans, until it was hard to distinguish some speeches from those once made by Nazis, and foreign observers gained the impression that Germany is still basically, Nazi.

Now, this may be true, but I do not think so, and since I have been oftener right regarding Germany than on most matters and have recently completed an exhaustive—and exhausting—study on the spot, I may be permitted to trust my own impression.

My impression is that the vacuum is real, but it will not be filled by aggressive nationalism.

Today's German is stubbornly, bitterly realistic. He sees that his country is a mere pawn in a Russo-American struggle, and that the conditions for a revival of Nazism simply do not exist.

Believe War Ahead

He believes that there will be war, but is convinced that Germany can win nothing from it.

The average German today is practically immune to slogans, phrases and promises. He believes only what he sees and experiences in reality.

Experience belies ideologies and slogans.

How, for instance shall he believe in the Bonn constitution? He reads, "the personal dwelling place is inviolable." But it is violated day by day. He reads, "all Germans possess full freedom of movement throughout the German federation."

What a joke, especially for the 9,000,000 fugitives from the East!

No one in Germany possesses full freedom to change his habitation.

The fugitives cannot leave the camp or village to which they are assigned without a permit from another place, and guarantee of a roof, and effectively these are impossible to obtain.

Today's German reads, "no one may be compelled to undertake any specific work," but anyone who refuses to co-operate in destroying his own factory on order of the dismantling authorities is liable to punishment.

He is promised freedom of religions and of political belief, but is told by politicians who signed this promise that Liberal and Socialistic views are incompatible with the Catholic conscience.

A capital city is picked for him in Bonn, about as ill-equipped for such a function as a city could be, and untold millions flow into it to make a half-way adequate government centre, while millions of Germans live in ruins and cellars.

He sees cathedrals, opera houses and fashionable spas rebuilt, while counterpart funds are withheld from housing.

He sees Western Germany Balkanized into eleven states, each with a parliament and huge government apparatus. And he sees new "democratic" politicians living on a great scale, and entertaining lavishly on expense accounts paid by the poor.

Forced Gratitude

He is asked by the Allied press to greet with gratitude the currency reform and economic recovery.

But he sees fortunes made by manufacturers who had hoarded essential goods until they could get "good money," and unconscionable black marketing conducted from IRO camps in American food and the last household goods of people who, with the currency reform, lost every pfennig of a lifetime of toil and thrift.

In an inchoate way, no longer with faith, or even hope, he longs, not for "Nationalism," "Democracy," or "Socialism," but for truth, decency, stability, even common sense.

The form of government interests him immeasurably less than its content.

He feels the new republic and its constitution to be without an ethos (as the occupation is without an ethos) and therefore hollow, paper forms and phrases, without reality or truth.

The German awaits, not a new Fuehrer, but an example worthy to be emulated. And sees it, as yet, nowhere.

Trivia

Plan for colored routes through London and other towns to enable motorists in areas strange to them to find their way easily and safely is to be submitted to the Ministry of Transport. It is suggested that a pair of colored discs with the number of the route should be placed on lamp posts. It is claimed by the inventor that the plan would: make for road safety; be specially useful for tourists; enable police to cope better with congestion by directing through traffic along specific routes.

During the 12 months ended March 31st, 1948, Britain had the highest birthrate for 27 years. This is revealed by the Ministry of Health's report for that period, which has just been published by His Majesty's Stationery Office. The birthrate rose to 20.5 per 1,000 of the population while the infant mortality fell to the lowest ever known. There were only 41 deaths for every 1,000 live births and the stillbirths rate also showed a substantial drop.

Letters to the Editor

Obey Lights

Editor, Bulletin.—On a recent visit to Vancouver I was very much impressed by the most orderly manner in which the pedestrians obeyed the traffic lights.

Not only do they stop on the amber but they stay put until the green appears and in addition they stay on the sidewalk instead of trespassing on the street by two feet or more as is done in Edmonton.

On making enquiry as to how this degree of perfection was arrived at, I was told it was through perisitent and insistent education on the part of patient and courteous police.

Why, oh why, are we so far from being up to date in this respect?

No Pressure School Grants

Editor, Bulletin.—For your information we enclose a copy of our letter to the secretary-treasurer of the Beverly School District. This department is most careful to pay school grants in accordance with regulations of general application and regrets the suggestion of your news item that it is subject to pressure and determines its grants capriciously.

W. H. SWIFT,
Deputy Minister, Department of Education.

The letter referred to by the Deputy Minister follows:

Secretary-Treasurer,
Beverly School District No. 2292.

"Dear Sir:

"A news item in the Edmonton Bulletin of August 13 has caused us some concern in that it indicates that due to pressure an undertaking was given to increase your school operation grant by some $2,000.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding we wish to make it clear that the grants earned by Beverly district will be those provided for by the School Grants Regulations as they may apply from time to time and that no undertaking has been given by this Department to pay any special grant.

"We understand that you were informed by some of our officers that if you operated more rooms the automatic result would be a reduction in your assessment per classroom and that in consequence your equalization grant would rise. This is, of course, true.

"There may be no misunderstanding in so far as your board is concerned but since the statement made in the Bulletin creates an erroneous impression we wish to make sure that all is quite clearly understood."

Again, our sincere thanks for your continued co-operation and support of this work.

Noisy Drivers

Editor, Bulletin. — Testing of auto drivers is a long-overdue reform.

Apart from traffic violators, there are many hundreds of morons behind the wheel in Edmonton who lean on their horns and make the day and night hideous. If a machine were invented to test their intelligence, it would register zero. Any fool can make a noise.

Entire neighborhoods are awakened any time from midnight on by moronic motorists who go honking their way through the streets or park outside a friend's house and signal by constant tooting. If their cars were taken from them, they'd probably go around with a horn in their hands like kids who play with toy guns.

Many weddings are celebrated quietly and with due decorum, but there is a moronic section of our society who seize on a wedding to stage a horn-honking procession for miles on end; they seem to think that thousands of other people — whose ears are assailed by their din—are interested in the fact that another couple of morons have just been married to produce more morons.

A good driver does not need a horn except in an emergency. But watch any auto line-up waiting for the red light to turn green. On the very second that the light turns, before the first car has a chance to start, there will be morons in the line-up who immediately start blasting the air with their horns. This is no reflection on good drivers, who are in the majority.

From Today's News

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

Washington's decision to allow Communist Yugoslavia to buy a $3,000,000 steel mill in the United States, thereby increasing that Balkan country's military potential, marks a bold development of United States policy.

Emphasis is given to it by the probability that the Yugoslavs will be granted a large American-backed loan from the world bank.

Clearly this gesture toward Communistic Belgrade represents what State Secretary Dean Acheson bluntly describes as a "calculated risk." Marshal Tito, dictator of Yugoslavia, is no friend of capitalistic Uncle Sam. It's only as far back as 1946 that the generalissimo's gunners were shooting down American airplanes, with loss of life, when our flyers had been driven over Yugoslav territory by bad weather.

The whole Moscow-Tito row could be a trick to fool the western powers into giving aid to Yugoslavia — aid which later would be turned against them in furthering the expansion of the Communist empire. Washington is quite well aware of this.

Why then does the U.S. lend aid to Tito? The answer is that the conflict between Moscow and Belgrade may not be phony but the real thing. Indeed, most of the evidence seems to support this view. The present picture we have is that of a Tito who still clings to a modified Communism which stands for nationalism. He refuses to accept the Russian bolshevist edict that the sovereignty of all satellite states such as Yugoslavia rests in Moscow.

Yugoslavia could be a powerful obstruction to further Communist imperial expansion in Europe and the mere fact that Tito is defying the might of Russia is encouragement to other small countries to stand firm against aggression.

Moreover, militarily Yugoslavia is one of the most important bases in Europe. It is the eastern sentinel of the Adriatic—Russia's gateway to that sea, across which lies an Italy that Moscow would give its right arm to bring into the Bolshevist camp.

Yugoslavia is the most powerful of the Balkan states. Her 15,000,000 people not only are fiercely independent but are among the world's best fighters. They are intensely proud of their sovereignty and are ready to fight to preserve it, a fact which lends strength to the idea that the Tito-Kremlin battle over sovereignty is the real thing.

Jobs Proposed for Retired Persons

What about an employment bureau for retired men and women? It sounds silly when you put it in that way. But is it?

Have you noticed how often a worker retires, ready to take a well-earned holiday, and then seems to fade right out?

Sometimes he will be dead in a matter of months. Yet how many others retire and then instead of resting, proceed to keep themselves so busy that they keep going for years, looking and feeling better with each passing year.

There must be something to the idea that we go stale unless we have sufficient interests to keep ourselves alert and active.

It is true that most people need to get away from the exacting grind of regular employment. Yet having done that, they also need some sort of activity in which they can use the faculties they used while they were regularly employed.

Inn some cases, these people have taken on public service work and have made an outstanding success of whatever they have tackled.

Hundreds Of Jobs To Be Done

There must be hundreds of jobs of this kind which could be filled by someone with ability, who simply wants something with which to occupy part of his time.

There are so many things which could be usefully done if someone could be found who could be interested in doing it, either on a voluntary basis, or possibly in some cases for a nominal expense allowance.

This is where the man or woman who has retired on a pension could easily fit in, not only to the personal advantage of the person taking the job, but to the advantage of a community or of a whole district.

In some cases, these people take these jobs have had experience in public service before their retirement and so they know where help is needed and they are also known to those who want such assistance.

But there are thousands of people who have never had much chance to take part in public service of any kind.

These people can do many things. They would enjoy taking over many types of activity. But they are not known and they do not know how to get into such things.

Thus, if there was some sort of bureau where a retired person could apply for certain types of work and where there would be someone able to suggest things which such an applicant might usefully do, it could provide a whole group of people ready to take on those assorted jobs of helping with community work, with city campaigns of one kind or another.

It could provide people who would undertake civic jobs of the non remunerative kind.

Lots Of Ability Being Wasted

It would be possible to plan community and civic projects if the right people could be found possessing the ability and the free time to undertake them.

As matters stand we are wasting a frightful amount of ability and energy simply because there is no known method for using it.

At the same time, there must be many people who would like nothing better than to be given some responsibility.

They would not only have the time to do it properly, but you would find that they would become so interested that they would likely produce results far beyond what would normally be expected.

The current policy of loading every public affair on to those who are already loaded down with their own affairs is entirely wrong.

The people who are working have no monopoly on ability, and they are faced with a definite shortage of time. Why not let them do their own work until they are ready to retire? But why not organize the retired people of the community into an active public service group?

Ridding the Press Of Those Cliches

★ ★ ★

A year or so ago when I was in charge of the editorials, or words department of a daily newspaper I decided in a rash moment, brought on by a surfeit either of strawberries or of stories that poured in over the leased wire, to strike a liberating blow for the English language.

Ours was an English language paper, though you would never have known it to judge by our sports pages. These were written in an uncanny gibberish only slightly more intelligible to the layman than the inscriptions on Egyptian crypts.

In any case, it was mainly against these appalling illiterates that I directed my campaign to save the English language from a fate worse than death, a cliche, incidentally, which all sports writers have my unqualified permission to use. At least it is compounded of words.

To this end, I sat at the console of my Underwood and dashed off a stern edict in which it was decreed that, henceforth, cliches, trite and meaningless synonyms, mangled metaphors and hackneyed sports jargon were out. I suspected that my boys might assume I was talking about some kind of horse-drawn vehicle when I used the word "hackneyed" so, quite succintly, I told them what I was driving at. A sample paragraph went something like this:

"When you are writing about baseball you will henceforth call the baseball a baseball. This means that you will not call it a sphere, the old horsehide pill, apple or spheroid. Call it a ball."

With Words

Under the heading of "baseball" were also listed hot corner, keystone sack, fly chaser, frame, canto, four-ply wallop, round-tripper, and so on and so forth. I then went on to cover the other sports and their terminology in some detail, noting in passing that, according to the reports in our newspaper, the local hockey teams had not scored a single goal all the previous season. Apparently they had all been too busy denting the twine or bulging the hemp, a pretty poor substitute, I thought, for an honest-to-goodness goal. I also expressed a strong antipathy to the phrase "sin bin." This, I had learned, was a synonym for penalty box, a rather disappointing discovery, incidentally. I had been under the impression that every time a player spent two minutes in the sin bin he was enjoying the orgy of his life.

Appended to my edict was a list of penalties and punishments which would be unflinchingly imposed for any violations of the rules," the memo said "anyone breaking these rules," the memo said, "will be obliged to stay late and help the janitor sweep out the city room."

This memo was written in the late afternoon and then placed on the sports editor's desk where he found it that night on his return from a local diamond embroglio in which the hometown hirelings had sandbagged the visiting ballhawks on the strength of a grand slam homer (three ducks were on the pond at the time) by the local's starry keystone sacker.

The next morning the sports editor led a delegation, composed of his entire staff. They had defiance in their eyes and there was a cliche on every shoulder. Well, I gave in. Had to. It dawned on me what I had done: with one fell memo I had rendered the whole sports staff inarticulate., struck them dumb. Denied their cliches and the boys couldn't even continue their careers as illiterates.

I mentioned the social standing of the sports writers. There is, in fact, a good deal of snobbery among sports writers. They are inclined to look down upon the fellow slave who earns his marbles (means money) chronicling the more mundane news of the day as a literary hamola (means hack or bum). They often get away with this because they have created the myth that many great American writers were, before becoming big wheels in letters, sports writers. To substantiate this claim, they will reel off the names of Damon Runyon, Paul Gallico and Ring Lardner. The fact is, of course, that only one of these, Lardner, has written anything of lasting literary value while plenty of real writers have emerged from the other side of newspapering. And, of course, the sports writers will always have Westbrook Pegler to live down.

Before writing this piece, I happened to mention the project to Don Carlson, sports editor of The Sun, an old comrade-in-arms. For several years Don and I covered all the better and bloodier murders which were committed hereabouts and I confess, the wholesalers had to work frantically to keep us in supply of cliches. Our favorite was "police dragnet," a device we had never seen but which was invariably dragged into our stories whenever they and the body grew cold. But to return to the point, Don was delighted with the idea of a blast against the hackneyed writing of the sports page and he hustled into his office to get me an AP story in which he had ringed a dozen such phrases. Examples: "Flossy work afield," "Sabbath nightcap" and "iced the after-piece," which means "on the second game of a double-header.

I thanked him and then turned to his sports pages where Joe DiMaggio's girl friend was quoted as saying, "There's only one like him (Joe). This Ted Williams may be a better hitter in the clutch, but for all-round dependability, it's Joe."

I don't believe she said it, Don.

Social Revolution in U.K. Is Fast Gathering Speed

This is the first of a series of six articles dealing with the changes that are taking place in post-war Britain. Others deal with specific aspects of the British scene.—EDITOR.

By Stuart Underhill

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Remember stout old John Bull, with his cheery smile and sturdy paunch? He's dead and buried, and Britain awaits another symbolic character to take his place.

John was nourished on plenty of strong beer and roast beef. He stood with his feet in the teeming industrial slums, but beyond them he could see rows of suburban houses where the middle classes lived comfortably, and beyond them the homes of the rich.

To some those were the "good old days", to others "black years of Tory misrule." Good or bad, their pattern will never be repeated.

The social revolution begun so slowly by in the last century by liberal statesmen has gathered speed. The Labor government, elected in 1945, has flung open doors of opportunity to the working classes on an unprecedented scale.

Tories Get On Bandwagon

The Conservative party, preparing for another election fight within the next few months, has promised that those doors will never be slammed. It is pledged to preserve the vast new scheme of social services, and to maintain wage levels which have more than doubled since 1938.

Britain's future shape will be determined largely by the way her working people grasp their new opportunities. Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, a son of the working classes who has never lost touch with his kin, has warned:

"The social security state cannot endure unless it is also a state of social responsibilities."

The Conservatives and the Labor party differ radically over the best means of awakening that sense of responsibility. Labor relies on state direction and long-term education.

Conservatves say they would depend more on private initiative.

They would "set the people free" by easing controls that many condemn as costly and restrictive. Their Britain of tomorrow would be a "property-owning democracy."

Its administration would call for policies far removed from traditional Conservative theory. Both parties, in fact, are walking onto unknown ground.

Whichever party forms the next government will face an immense task in financing the social services.

The health service alone, which provides "free" medical care for everyone in the country, costs £336,000,000 ($1,344,090,,000) a year.

That is one reason there is such intense concentration on the dollar problem. From the sterling viewpoint Britain is a rich country. Her goods command a ready market at high prices in many parts of the non-dollar world.

Some Raw Materials Vital

She can cut food imports from North America to the bone, and do without paper and tobacco, but there are certain raw materials from the dollar area which are essential if factories are to keep busy.

They can be paid for only by the sale of British goods. This has been the theme for so long that Vicky, irrepressible cartoonist in the London News Chronicle, recently dreamed up his version of the new John Bull.

He named him Percy Vere, and portrayed him as a solemn, wide-eyed workman. His features were identified as upper lip (to keep stiff), nose (to put to the grindstone), chin (to take it on) and best foot (to put forward). His clothing included a belt (to tighten) and socks (to pull up).

But Percy looks a bloodless fellow, and Britain will never accept him permanently.

3 Accused Are Remanded

CALGARY, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Three men charged with attempted murder following a shooting affray in the lobby of a downtown theatre here last Aug. 2, were remanded to Aug. 27 when they made a brief appearance in court Saturday.

The trio, Kenneth R. Dunlap of Calgary, Robert Boyle of Moose Jaw, Sask., and John Mallock of Winnipeg, are alleged to have been involved in the shooting affray, during which Douglas A. Seigner of Calgary was struck in the abdomen by a spent bullet.

SLIGHT WOUND

The bullet is believed to have ricocheted off a brass rail before hitting Seigner. He escaped with only a bruised abdomen.

Remanded to the same date were George Mallock of Winnipeg, brother of John, and Marion Wagner of no fixed abode. George Mallock is charged with attempting to corrupt a witness (Seigner).

Miss Wagner was arrested on a charge of vagrancy in connection with the same incident.

B.C. Lumber Strike Looms

VANCOUVER, Aug. 22.—(CP)—British Columbia's lumber industry is threatened with a possible strike of 32,000 coastal loggers.

The policy committee of International Woodworkers of America (CIO) late Saturday rejected outright the majority report of a conciliation board in their dispute with coastal logging operators.

The committee said it plans to meet with the department of labor to go into the question of a strike vote.

The conciliation board rejected higher wages and other demands by the IWA.

Operators asked for a 15-cent-an-hour wage cut while the union asked for a 13-cent-an-hour boost, bringing basic wage levels to $1.08.

70 MINES CLOSED IN WILDCAT STRIKE

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(UP)—More than 70 coal mines closed down today because of a wildcat strike of hoist operators.

The strike was expected to cut deep into the production of coal, vitally needed for export to pay for Britain's imports.

The operators, known as winders, demanded wage increase of up to $16 a week. About half of Yorkshire's 115 mines, which produce one fourth of the nation's coal, suspended operations.

Fifteen of Lancashire's 73 mines also shut down.

The winders struck illegally against the advice of their national union headquarters. A negotiation meeting was scheduled for tonight at Barnsley, Yorkshire.

The national coal board indicated that troops might be ordered to work the mines. Special reports on the situation were rushed to Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Vern Mohs Cops 3rd Amateur Title

Wins Final 4 and 3 As Mack's Putter Sour Like A Lemon

By Hugh Watson

A war-time Calgary City Amateur champ found a cold putter in his golf bag yesterday and the results that followed were disastrous.

The above, in one brief paragraph, explains why Highlands' Vern Mohs grabbed the City Amateur golf crown with a 4 and 3 victory for the third time in the last four years.

Municipal Golf course was the scene of battle. Mohs and clubmate Emerson Mack, former Calgary champ shooting for the "big one" in a 36-hole final. Colorful crowds, dressed in anything from sun-suits to just plain suits, saw Mack at his worst, dropping seven holes behind the defending champion on the first 13 trys in the opening round.

There were probably more gasps of anguish from yesterday's gallery than any other seen here in a long time. Mack, the under-dog, had the hopes of the crowd riding with him.

PUTTING BLUES

Four times Mack missed birdies on nothing longer than a five-footer. Six times over the 33 holes he missed getting a split with a bad putt.

Control of the tee shots and well-aimed approaches were his only weapons. Time and again he would got on the green in two, missing his birdie on the short strokes.

As said before, Mack appeared headed for a quick exit in the morning round. He was three over par on the first five holes, losing the second, third, fourth and fifth as Mohs put together three birdies and a par.

Mohs reached his peak on the 520-yard par five 13th. After going six up on the 11th and halving the 12th, the defending champion really poured it on.

A 300-yard drive, not unusual for Mohs on the hard fairways, and a 200-yard spoon shot left him with a 15-foot putt. He lined it up and calmly sank his eagle three.

At this point Mohs was seven up, with Mack yet to win a hole. The challenger crashed through on the par four 15th. Mohs conceded the hole after five strokes. Mack had a six inch putt for a par.

After halving the next two on pars, Mack took the 18th with his first birdie, Mohs zooming to a double-bogey six.

MACK'S LAST STAND

Following the two-hour breather, with five holes left, Mack was four down and on the way out. His last effort was a birdie on the 14th to cut the deficit to three holes.

Clincher came on the 15th. Mohs' drive rested on the lip of the green, his chip shot rolling to within three feet of the cup. A nice recovery from a trap left Mack with a 14 foot putt for a split. He mised and with it went the title chance.

In a first flight final, Municipal's Jim Hogan defeated Gordon Smeltzer, Country Club, 3 and 2. Ingy Cameron of Mayfair won the second flight with a 2 and 1 victory over Ken Caldwell. Other results saw Bill Diggins beat Roger Wilson on the 19th hole for third flight honors, and Lawrence Montgomery edge Herbie Schultz 3 and 2 in fourth flight final.

Grid Rally Big Success

When Calgary Stampeders invade Montreal for an exhibition game with Lew Hayman's Alouettes this Thursday line coach Bill Radovich likely will scout the game for Edmonton Eskimos.

Radovich announced last night after the mamomth football rally at the Starlite drive-in theatre that he would "probably leave" early this week to attend the game. On the return trip he expects to scout the Saskatchewan Roughrider-Winnipeg Blue Bomber game in Winnipeg on August 27.

Over 3,500 fans attended last night's rally to meet the Eskimos and see some short films on American football. It was generally agreed that the program presented by manager Al Anderson and his aides was strictly top drawer.

Sunday afternoon Reds beat Whites 17-3 in an intra-squad game at Clarke Stadium. Earl Elsey, Chuck Fenenboch and Harry Bunting scored touchdowns for the winners, two of which were converted by Fenenboch and Andy Marefos. Coach Annis Stukus went into the game to kick a field goal for the Whites.

Earlier in the day Pat West returned to hospital where his infected leg was operated on for a cyst. He will be out of action all week.

Saturday night, Precisions scored an unearned run in the eighth inning to eke out a 4-3 win. Second baseman Colin Kilburn threw wide at first base, allowing catcher Ray Sutton to scamper home with the winning run.

Pitcher Al Young had a 2-0 lead acquired by Kilburn's fourth-frame homer going into the sixth inning, but three hits, featured by Sutton's triple brought three runs across for Precisions.

Centre-fielder Ken Johannson tied the score with a home run over the left field wall, but a single and an error gave Precisions their one game lead.

GIANTS WIN BY FORFEIT

Fans' Bottle Barrage Costs Phillies Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(CP)—The hot streak of Philadelphia Phillies was stopped yesterday—by a home-town fan demonstration which forced the umpires to forfeit the National league game to New York Giants on nominal score of 9-0.

Phillies Saturday beat Giants 9-3 and they blanked them 4-0 in the first first game Sunday. That was Phils' sixth straight.

But in the ninth inning of the second game, with Giants leading 4-2 and only one out in the top of the ninth, the uproar brokeout when umpire George Barr ruled that Ritchie Ashburn hadn't caught a long fly from the bat of Joe Lafata. According to major league rules a game may be declared forfeit if the home club hasn't furnished enough police protection to clear the field within 15 minutes of the start of a rhubarb.

Ashburn and the entire Phils team were arguing with the umpires, claiming that Ashburn caught the drive near his boottops. Barr ruled that the ball had touched the ground. Fans poured out on the field and fired a steady stream of pop bottles into left and centre fields.

Cardinals mean time improved their lead to a game and a half with Brooklyn holding second place. St. Louis edged Pittsburgh 4-3 Saturday, then split a Sunday double bill, winning 4-2 and losing 8-0. Murray Dickson yielded only two hits in the nightcap.

Boston Braves shut out Brooklyn twice, 4-0 Saturday and 5-0 Sunday.

In the American league Boston Red Sox came within 2½ games of the leading New York Yankees. Sox took two from Washington Saturday, 8-4 and 7-1, then blanked the Senators 4-0 Sunday.

Meantime the Yanks beat Piladelphia 7-3 Saturday but lost 8-7 Sunday as Connie Mack day was celebrated.

Barnes Hurls No Hitter, Ted Tappe's Big Bat Booms

You have to give those Calgary Buffaloes marks for being strictly impartial.

Last week-end the Buffs—or rather what passes for the Buffs following the recent cutting adrift of most of the 'pros' the club once boasted—invaded (?) Renfrew park for a week-end series against Eskimos.

Result: Esks five wins, no losses. In other words a clean sweep.

Buffs were right back at Renfrew this week-end for a four game series against manager Les Edwards' Cubs, a team with which Eskimos have been waging one of the bitterest first-place duels to be uncovered the length and breadth of the baseball highways.

Result: Cubs four wins, no losses. No sir. Buffs seemingly want no part in settling that Cubs-Esks quarrel. They mean to be good to both Edmonton entries in president Sam Irwin's Big Four loop.

CUBS BACK ON TOP

Esks fared rather shabbily in Calgary at the week-end, dropping a pair of Sunday reverses to the unpredictable Puritys. In the bargain Puritys' Dick Barnes set Esks down with no hits while humbling them 8-0 yesterday afternoon.

This would not go down well with the normally heavy-hitting Eskimos.

But to get back to the Cubs and their relatives, the Buffs.

CALLIHAN WINS 11TH

Saturday afternoon Vern Callihan racked up his 11th win of the campaign against four reverses as he pitched Cubs to a 14-9 victory. The junior league product of the mincing strides was no part of a puzzle, Buffs getting to him for 13 hits. However he and his mates were even more of a good thing against the slants of Buffs' curveballer Ken Terry, touching up the big fellow for 15 hits, including outfielder 'Slim' Clovinski's home run.

The Saturday night game found manager Edwards returning to form with a bang as he limited Buffs to four hits while turning in a 6-1 win.

It's been weeks since Edward's was able to cop off a mound triumph and his success might prove a real tonic in Cubs' camp.

Yesterday afternoon, as Cubs made it four straight (they won Friday 12-5 as the curtain went up, it took Morrie Hawkey and Bob Stuart to hobble Buffs 8-5. The visitors were away winging against Hawkey to gain a 5-0 edge in the first three innings.

But Cubs refused to go for the gas-pipe. They stayed in there admirably and finally caught up with, and passed, the win-hungry Buffs.

Outfielder Doug Stewart, with three hits in as many tries, paced Cubs in the Louisville slugger department.

Crowds were along slim lines as Cubs slapped down the Cowtown crew, proof positive that Buffs' impotence of the past two months and more is no part of a secret with baseball fans in these parts

VERN CALLIHAN

SLIM CLOVINSKI

CALGARY, Aug. 22—Slim Dick Barnes, a 21-year-old stringbean from San Diego State College, California, made Big Four Baseball league history here yesterday afternoon when he hurled the first no-hit, no-run, game in the three seasons of the loop's existence.

Pitching for Calgary Puritys, Barnes blanked Edmonton Eskimos 8-0. The 195-pound righthander, who towers six feet five inches in his stocking feet, faced just 29 men over the nine-inning route.

He walked Dave Brockie in the first inning and the Esk outfielder promptly was cut down trying to steal second base. Second-sacker Bill Price likewise coaxed a free ticket in the seventh but got no farther.

Between times Jerry Seaman reached base in the fifth inning, result of a wide throw to first by Purity third-sacker Freddy Granato on his slow roller. There were those who thought that Seaman had the throw beaten for a base hit.

However official scorer ruled an error as Seaman pulled up at second. He went to third on a fielder's choice, the only Esk to get that far around the runways.

Pinch-hitter Ed Morris provided an anxious moment for Barnes in the eighth inning. His looper looked like it was going to drop in safely for a hit but second-baseman Richie Carlisle got to the ball just in time.

For their part Puritys were making merry at the expense of Esks' righthander Bob Peterson, stinging the Spokane boy for 10 hits, including a two-run homer in the fourth by all-rounder (on this occasion) Barnes, and a second boundary belt by Ernie Beland.

If Barnes stole most of the spotlight in Sunday's afternoon tilt it took Esk first-sacker Ted Tappe to make the headlines in a losing cause in the Sabbath night encounter.

Esks went under 8-6 to Puritys, thereby dropping back into second place behind Edmonton Cubs, but no blame could be laid at Tappe's door.

All the smooth-fielding kid from out on the coast did was belt four hits in as many trips to the plate, his safe-knocks including three home runs and five runs-batted-in.

In all Tappe clicked for five homers in the three game series, having walloped a pair as Esks grabbed Friday's opening tilt 14-5. A scheduled Saturday game was rained out.

Sees St. Louis One-Club City

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 22—(AP)—St. Louis may become a one-club major league city with the Browns moving to Los Angeles by 1952, J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, told a press conference yesterday.

Spink, answering a question, said that the trouble was at the gate. He said that a club that fails to attract larger attendance than the Browns at home "just can't survive."

"Los Angeles, with its reservoir of drawing power from throughout its metropolitan area looks like the site. Pacific coast is hungry for major league baseball. And it certainly appears something must be done."

BIG GUN in South Side Athletic victory over Cadomin Legion in best-of-five northern Alberta junior baseball semi-finals was Don Wynn, above. Wynn pitched South Side to one victory in series and powered Athletic hitters at plate.

S.S. Athletics Kayo Cadomin

South Side Athletics knocked Cadomin Legion out cold at Clarke Stadium Saturday night to win a berth in the northern Alberta junior baseball finals.

South Side flattened the visiting coal miners 10-0 with an effective one-two punch: solid hitting and effective pitching.

The victory was the third straight for Athletics and followed their twin wins over Cadomin in the mountain town last week. In an exhibition game played yesterday South Side coasted to a 12-1 triumph.

CAMROSE OR BARRHEAD?

Athletics now meet the winner of the Camrose-Barrhead series for the northern title. Camrose took a two-game lead as this best-of-five series opened at Barrhead yesterday, winning 7-5 and 9-6. Remainder of the round is billed for Camrose next weekend.

Pitcher Hal Forss was the big noise Saturday. The Viking-born righthander stymied Cadomin on one hit and struck out 11. And on the offense Forss socked a pair of singles, driving in three runs.

HURLERS' DUEL

For four innings the game was pitchers' duel betwixt Forss and Roland (Dazzler) St. Louis. Up to that point each had allowed one hit and the score was deadlocked 0-0.

A South Side rally flared in the fifth, singles by Forss, Doug Kilburn, Al Bryant, and Orest Stogryn combining with two Legion errors to produce four runs. Before the shelling was over Dazzler St. Louis shone less brightly and lanky Eddie Kapusinsky had come on to relieve him.

But it wasn't Kapusinsky's night either. South Side socked his curve ball high up and far away in the seventh to score six more runs on seven safeties.

Kilburn paced the 12-hit Athletic attack, which failed to net a single extra-base blow, with three singles. Leftfielder Harry Bierd got the lone Cadomin hit, a single to short centrefield in the third inning.

South Side rolled from the starting line with five runs in the first frame Sunday. From there to the finish eight dismal innings later the game was loosely played in disinterested fashion by both clubs.

Don Wynn drilled a two-run homer to left field in the eighth to give the 500 fans in attendance their one thrill of an otherwise listless afternoon.

Junior Soccer Playoffs Set

Northern Alberta junior soccer playdowns open at Clarke Stadium tomorrow night, with Maple Leafs taking on North Side Legion Cubs at 6:45 o'clock. It will be a sudden-death game.

Winner will meet Cloverdale Thursday night, also at 6:45 and victor of this tiff represents the north in the final. Wind-up game is slated for Calgary Saturday, with Lethbridge representing the south. Leafs currently hold the Alberta title.

U.S. DAVIS CUPPERS NOT SO CHIPPER NOW

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 22—(AP)—Jack Bromwich and Billy Sidwell, the Australian Davis Cup aces, needed only 50 minutes yesterday to win the national doubles title from their countrymen, Frank Sedgman and George Worthington, 6-4, 6-0, 6-1.

And they did it in such one-sided fashion that most of the impressed tennis students agreed that the defending American Davis Cup quartet, three of whom faltered here, are decided underdogs for the challenge-round trophy competition that opens next Friday at Forest Hills, N.Y.

What bothered the United States team most was the fact tkat Sedgman and Worthington, playing together in their first tournament, were able to upset defending champions Gardner Mulloy and Billy Talbert, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5, 9-7, in their quarter-finals.

Wilson Twins One-Two In 50-Mile Bike Race

Three crack-ups marred the running of Silver Hawks Provincial 50-mile bike race yesterday, favorite Jim Purdy coming in third after being knocked out in a bad spill.

The Wilson twins—Roger and Bruce—stole top honors, placing first and second respectively.

Purdy, who was grabbing lunch from the side of the road as he whizzed by, was out of the race for 10 minutes. When he regained consciousness, leaders were four miles ahead, with half the race left.

GREAT TRY

A great sprint run brought him even with the leaders at Spruce Grove. Wilson brothers kept up a fast pace, forcing Purdy to drop back.

Hugh Goodman was forced into a ditch and Bill Kastings had to drop out of the race in a spill one mile this side of Spruce Grove.

Newcomer Ernie Armstrong led the 14 riders at the six-mile pole, but dropped back soon after Link Moore got a flat tire at the eight mile post. Moore, following a quick tire-change, caught the pack at the 12 mile mark.

Three riders were knocked out of contention momentarily when Kastings, Carl Cunningham and Paul Smith collided.

ROGER WILSON TO FORE

Roger Wilson edged into the lead, followed by Bruce and Purdy. Moore grabbed fourth place followed by Leo Campbell, Ted Clegg, and Smith.

The time—two hours, 13 minutes, 5 9.2 seconds—failed to threaten record set by Leo Campbell in 1941. Campbell's mark was two hours, seven minutes.

First prize was set of wheels, with Bruce Wilson and Purdy winning three speed gears for second and third.

RCMP highway patrol escorted the riders.

Moir Wins Net Crown

Spud Moir and Helen Parker clinched Highlands tennis club championships in the men's and ladies' singles events as the annual tournament concluded yesterday.

Moir subdued youthful Gerry Argue 6-3, 6-1 for the men's title while Mrs. Parker downed Mrs. Tom Shandro 6-0, 6-1. Earlier in the tournament the unseeded Argue filled the role of a 'giant-killer' as he sidelined several seeded stars.

Other winners declared Sunday were Jack O'Brien and Bob Lister in the men's doubles, Mrs. Parker and Joyce Roseborough in the ladies' doubles and Doris Davies and Stan Johnson in the mixed doubles.

Following are the week-end results:

Fair Author Wins Derby

Edmonton-Owned Ace Breezes Home in Alberta Turf Classic

Special to the Bulletin

CALGARY, Aug. 22—Move over there, Lee Williams and Franks Mistake. Make room for Harvey Metheral and Fair Author.

When Williams' Franks Mistake won the Alberta Derby in 1948 it marked the first time in the history of the classic for three-year-olds that an Edmonton owner had crashed through.

Apparently the idea was catching. Saturday, as the 19th running of the derby took place at rain-drenched Victoria Park here, Fair Author, pride-and-joy of the Metheral stable of Edmonton, galloped to an easy victory at the expense of 10 other colts and fillies.

ROY IN IRONS

Ably handled by rider Emile Roy, the daughter of Fairmond-Authority took over on the front end as the field spewed from the gate and was never headed. At the finish it was Fair Author by two and one-half lengths over Calgary-owned and favorite in the betting, Yates Senior, with Ella Tryst, in the show position.

Not long before starter Wilson Dunn sent the field on its way a rainstorm of near-cloudburst proportions turned the racing strip into a sea of slop. However Fair Author, which ran a disappointing race earlier in the week in a pre-derby prep, appeared to relish the going.

"I believe that rainstorm actually won the race for us," winning rider Roy explained afterwards. Then the Saskatchewan saddle product, who rode in eastern Canada most of the season, added:

"They told me the filly couldn't go that far (the derby distance is one mile and one-sixteenth) so I kinda kept waitin' for her to quit under me. But she kept rollin' right along."

Fair Author was Roy's only mount of the day. At present he is serving a five-day suspension handed out by presiding steward Judge George W. Schilling for rough riding. However, under the circumstances, jockeys are permitted to fulfill contracts to ride in stake races.

INITIAL DERBY WIN

It was Roy's first triumph in the Alberta derby. At Edmonton, in August 1947, he rode six winners on a seven race card, losing in a photo finish for his only unsuccessful effort of the day.

In taking down the big slice of the better than $2,600 purse Fair Author was timed in 1.57 over the sloppy track. Somewhat overlooked in the betting she paid $13.15, $7.80 and $6.85 across the board.

It was only the fifth time in the history of the race that a filly triumphed.

LOCAL GOLFER SCORES ACE

Two firsts were scored at Prince Rupert golf course yesterday when Nick Lehune scored a hole-in-one on the 175-yard par three 14th.

It was Lehune's first ace and also the first perfect shot made this year at the Rupert layout. Witnesses included Hal Mohr, Ad Berg, Chuck Porter and Flyers' hockey star Freddie Smitten.

Jack Berry Adds To Fight Card

Boxing promoter Jack Berry announced last night that Billy Carter of Lethbridge and Toronto and Jim Maggert from Spokane would feature the first half of a double semi-windup on his August 29 boxing card. Both men fight in the lightheavyweight division.

Wildwood's Benny Geary and Pinky Cowan of Spokane are scheduled to clash in the main event.

Rosedale Splits With Drumheller

ROSEDALE, Aug. 22—Playing before the largest crowd to cram Rosedale Park since 1930, Rosedale Midlands and Drumheller Legionnaires yesterday split the first two games for the central Alberta junior baseball title.

The provincial champion Midlands blasted their way to a 9-3 win in the first game but Drumheller fought an uphill battle to capture the second 7-5.

FAST HORSES, faster airplanes get jockeys Emile Roy, left, Vic Bovine from here to there in hurry. Roy, who rode Edmonton-owned Fair Author to victory in Alberta Derby at Calgary Saturday, spent Sunday in Edmonton, accompanied by natty-dresser Bovine. Fair headed back to Cowtown via airways late yesterday.

Fair Author, well handled, shook off Playful Pilot after three furlongs, opened a long lead, continued on without threat and had little trouble holding Yates Senior safe. The latter slowly improved his position, closed fast through the stretch and outfinished Ella Tryst in the final stride. Ella Tryst made a move after six furlongs, could not menace the winner and gave way to Yates Senior approaching the finish. Mainking closed some ground in the final quarter. Royal Pilot was never able to gain a contending position. Lucky L tired. Playful Pilot showed brief early speed, could not keep pace with the winner and tired after six furongs. Wee Elegance broke well from outside the starting gate and had no excuses. Lucky L and Lars Porsena also broke from outside the gate.

MINIATURE AIRCRAFT is their passion but Jack Pennefather and Ed Hardy of Edmonton get ready to board real thing for Detroit. There they will represent Alberta in Third International Model Plane Contest, sponsored by Chrysler Corporation.

Bulletin-Chrysler Air Show Winners Go To East Meet

Confident smiles covered faces of two young Edmonton model builders yesterday as they boarded a TCA plane for the East.

Leaving for Detroit to represent Alberta in the third international model plane contest were Jack Pennefather, 10322 95 street, and Ed Hardy of 11415 92 street.

TIED FOR TOPS

The youths tied for grand championship of the Edmonton Bulletin Junior Air Show July 10 and consequently both won rights to represent Alberta.

Contest was held at Namao tirport and was sponsored by The Bulletin and Kenn's Service Garage, Northern Alberta Chrysler dealers.

More than 500 model aircraft enthusiasts from the U.S. and Canada will participate in the contest.

TO MEET THE BEST

"The cream of the crop will be there and going will be stiff," said Jack.

"We hope to make a good showing and perhaps bring a trophy or two," added Ed Hardy.

Jacked in crates were the boys' models.

TWO GAS, TWO RUBBER

Jack preferred to take two gas-powered speed planes and two rubber-powered models.

During the ten-day meet the boys will be guests at the Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit.

EUROPE GIFT DOLLS IMPOUNDED FOR DUTY

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22.—(AP)—More than 100 dolls destined for needy children in Europe have been impounded here by United States customs inspectors.

The government wants duty paid.

The dolls were contributed by children of St. Catharines, Ont., to a dolls-for-Europe campaign conducted by townsfolk of Somerset, Pa.

German Reds Plan To Give Tito Support

By Thomas A. Reedy

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—German Communists who hate Russia formed a new splinter party today and promptly sent Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia a message of support.

A spokesman for the group claimed 4,000 active members in the Russian zone of Germany and another 600 in the western sectors of Berlin.

Fifty former members of the Communist party and Socialist Union party announced they had broken away at a meeting in the French sector of Berlin and were forming a "free Communist party."

Karl-Heinz Scholz, 41-year-old engineer and veteran German Communist underground campaigner, told a reporter in an interview:

"We have formed to fight imperialist Bolshevism. The so-called internationalism of Soviet Russia is a fraud. We reject any plans for a dictatorship over the people."

It was the first report of a German revolt against Soviet domination similar to the breakaway last year of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

Scholz said the Free Communist party, like Tito's Communists, will continue to support Marxian Communism, but resist any dictation from the Kremlin.

Scholz, jailed by the Nazis in 1933 as a suspect in the historic Reichstag fire case, said Soviet sector authorities have put a price of 10,000 east marks (about $700) on his head. He lives in a French sector apartment, with steel-reinforced doors and barred windows.

Polio Panic Can Be Worse Than Disease Says Doctor

By Alton L. Blakeslee

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—Polio panic is hitting millions of children and parents this year.

This panic isn't new. But it may be getting worse. It comes from fear and from ignorance or misunderstanding of what is known about infantile paralysis.

"The fear and panic over polio can be worse than the disease itself," says Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the United States national foundation for infantile paralysis.

Many parents break out with the polio jitters each summer. They torment themselves with worry. Their homes and children get upset.

Often, children are forbidden to live or play normally. They may be cooped up in the house, or forbidden to swim. Camps, movies or a trip into town are banned by some parents.

The fact is that such steps do no good. The result is emotional harm to the children, by giving them the idea that some unknown terror is abroad.

"Parents and their children would be far better off if they took the same reasonable attitude toward polio." Dr. Van Riper said.

Knowing the facts about polio is the best way to banish fear. Here are some fictions about polio, and the facts as cited by Dr Harry M. Weaver, research director of the foundation:

Fiction: Polio is the worst of all [illegible] diseases.

Ba[illegible]

burn[illegible]

Fact: Polio in any recognizable form is relatively rare. Rheumatic fever is the worst, both as a killer and cripple.

Fiction: Crowds are the most dangerous place for picking up polio.

Fact: Polio is a commendable disease, apparently spread by intimate personal contact, such as occurs at home. It apparently takes time and intimacy to contact it.

Fiction: You shouldn't swim during the polio season.

Fact: Swimming in polluted waters is foolish, for the virus may be present. But there's no evidence that anyone ever got polio from swimming at a clean pool or beach.

Fiction: Every person getting polio will be crippled or die.

Fact. Fifty to 60 per cent recover completely. About 20 per cent are left with minor handicaps. Fifteen to 20 per cent may be badly handicapped, and five to 10 per cent may die.

Fiction: The cause of polio is not known, and preventon is hopeless.

Fact: It is caused by a virus, one of the tiniest disease organisms. There is not yet any vaccine to prevent it, but one probably will be developed soon. The best protection is good health rules, especially in keeping clean, getting rest, and avoiding fatigue.

Fiction: Polio epidemics follow long spells of hot, dry weather.

Fast: Polio occurs all the year round, reaching its peak in summer. Dry, hot weather doesn't help to spread it any more than rainy weather, so far as is known.

BRAIN OPERATION

Give-Away Radio Show May Serve Good Cause

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 22—(UP)—Mrs. Dorothe Pappenfort said today she would use part of the $26,000 she won on the "Stop the Music" radio program to pay for a delicate brain operation on her son.

The 29-year-old mother of two children, won gifts ranging from a home soda fountain to a round-trip flight to Fort Yukon, Alaska, last night by identifying the "Mystery Melody" on the network's give-away show as 'Buttered Peas."

She said that her younger son, two-year-old Robert William, must undergo the brain operation next week.

The youngster's skull was fractured a year ago, she explained, and recent X-rays indicated a plate must be placed over the injured [illegible].

Her husband, Karsen Pappenfort, 31, an engineer for the state highway department, said, with typical skepticism:

"I'll believe it when I see it."

Oil-From-Coal Industry Urged

Miners' Union Sees Move Only Solution to Decline

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 22.—(CP)—The coal industry must become a coal-into-oil industry or it is due for a serious and permanent decline, the United Mine Workers (CCL) District 26 told the Dominion Coal Board today.

In an 8,000-word brief, the union said the coal industry is headed for a decline because of the tremendous growth in the use of oil by industry, railways and residential consumers.

The board is holding Maritime sittings to hear various views on the industry.

OIL ON INCREASE

It presented figures to show that in 1947 the Maritimes consumed oil equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of coal, and that since 1943 oil consumption in the Maritimes had increased by the equivalent of 350,000 tons of coal. During the same period coal consumption declined by 600,000 tons.

The brief said the first step in development of an oil-from-coal industry in Cape Breton should be construction, at government cost, of a demonstration or pilot plant for experimentation.

Fuel oil from coal now costs not more than three cents per gallon more than natural oil, the brief said. Operation of a commercial hydrogenation plant for experimentation would soon reduce this gap.

The union pointed to development of an oil-from-coal industry in the United States and cited a U.S. government report which said fuel oil from coal "will be an effective means of supplementing residual fuel oil from petroleum."

The UMW maintained that "coal in its present form burned as it is, is an obsolete product." It criticized what it called the industry's policy of "price competition" as the means to meet competition from oil.

The brief said the industry was attempting to sell coal by keeping it cheaper than oil; this had resulted in the coal miner bearing the burden with sub-standard wages.

The union said that the two basic problems—mechanization and increased competition from oil—already had had an impact on the miners who "after a respite of eight years, are again confronted with, and have already suffered from, part-time work."

Dealing with mechanization, the union said: "It is impossible to overstate the intolerable injustice that will be done the coal miner's family if mechanization is put into effect in the coal mines without a planned attack on the social and employment problems that will accompany it."

SOME PETS ARE TOO BIG FOR PETTING

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 22.—(UP)—French actress Denise Darcel vowed today she would never again pat an elephant, even in friendship. It's too dangerous.

Miss Darcel's playful tap on the set of a jungle movie Saturday made the elephant stagger. The actress was thrown off balance and broke two ribs when she toppled onto a pile of rocks.

Aura of Gloom Wraps New U.S.-U.K. Talks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Preliminary British-American talks on Britain's economic crisis will open here this week in an atmosphere of bitterness and gloom.

United States officials said it would require some notable feats of statesmanship to prevent the conference from hurting instead of improving British-American relations.

CLIMAX IN SEPT.

The conference, in which several top Canadian cabinet ministers will take part, will reach a climax early next month.

Among other things the British say they take a dim view of the appointment of John W. Snyder, secretary of the treasury, to head the American delegation for the main, second stage of the negotiations which will open Sept. 6 or 7. They say they would have preferred State Secretary Dean Acheson.

TOP LEVEL TALKS

State department officials counter this criticism by saying that Acheson and Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain will in fact probably hold the most important of the conversations—covering the whole range of United States-British relations—entirely outside the economic negotiations. The latter will be conducted by Snyder and Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps.

Canada's role will be as an interested third party at the talks.

Catholic Labor Political Action Group Hinted

QUEBEC, Aug. 22—(CP)—L'Evenement-Journal said today in a front page story that the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor will probably form a political action committee during its annual convention Sept 18-22, in Montreal.

The newspaper said it was basing its report on rumors "which are being substantiated more and more in well-informed labor circles."

The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor has a membership of about 100,000 in the province of Quebec. Its largest affiliates include textile workers' unions and asbestos mine workers in the Eastern Townships.

ALBERTA'S NEW VETERINARY LABORATORIES

The above picture is an interior view of one of the laboratories in the new building showing one of the Department's expert Pathologists making an examination with a microscope.

This is an interior view of the building adjoining the main Laboratories which houses laying batteries and battery brooders for the chicks and poults used for diagnostic and research purposes.

When a farm animal falls ill or dies in Alberta, it concerns the Alberta Department of Agriculture just as much as it does the owner of the beast. If there is the remotest suspicion of disease the department's skilled pathologists and veterinarians take over. The case is thoroughly diagnosed, blood tests are taken of the sick animal or searching examinations are made on the specimens taken from the victim of the affliction. Thus, everything is done to determine the cause and what control measures are to be taken in the event of disease detection.

This outstanding service to farmer and stockman was begun in 1940. In the past nine years the number of specimens examined have risen from 809 to over 2,800 in 1948. In the first six months of 1949, some 900 animal specimens, more than 2,000 poultry specimens and 12,000 blood samples have been dealt with.

DISEASE IS SCOURGE OF LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

The worst livestock killers are invisible. Deadly germs and viruses creep up unseen to spread the loss of valuable cattle, hogs, poultry and sheep. Were it not for the diligence of Provincial Pathologists, losses from these hidden killers might well be greater than they are. With the opening of the new Veterinary Laboratories in Edmonton, the facilities for research, and service for the diagnosis and control of animal disease has been greatly expanded. This department and the community veterinarian will work hand-in-hand in the interests of the stock-raiser in preventing losses by prompt and accurate diagnosis and in directing disease control measures in every corner of Alberta.

ADDITIONAL FUNCTIONS AND ACTIVITIES OF THE VETERINARY SERVICE BRANCH ARE AS FOLLOWS: Maintaining a vaccine bank for mink and fox distemper; disease prevention and control lectures; preparation and distribution of bulletins on poultry and animal diseases; giving financial assistance to Alberta students attending Ontario Veterinary College; assisting and conducting surveys to determine cobalt-deficient areas in the province and other important operations related to livestock.

NWT Holds 1st Garden Display

Fort Smith Horticulture Show to be Annual Event

FORT SMITH, NWT, Aug. 22—Horticulture show here August 17 and sponsored by the Home and School Association, is believed to be the first garden display ever held in North West Territories.

Keen interest was shown as evidenced by the 74 entries in five classes. Many citizens turned out to see the fine display of vegetables, flowers and fruits in the public school auditorium.

It is the hope of the association that the first attempt will pave the way for a horticulture show of greater proportions in future years.

Mrs. K. Y. Spencer, of Edmonton, G. Mattern and W. Sloan acted as judges.

Following are winners in various classes:

Collectiton of vegetables—1, Mrs. G. Abraham; 2, Roman Catholic Mission; 3, Mrs. D. Wilderspin.

65-Year Old Is Clinic's First Donor

WETASKIWIN, Aug. 22—First blood donor at the clinic held in Wetaskiwin, Thursday afternoon and evening was Mrs. L. Duncan. She was a bit worried. She has a birthday coming up in about a week and then she will be 65. She was afraid they wouldn't be able to again take her blood as she was so close to the limit.

Mrs. D. W. Colbert gave her first donation of blood in Wetaskiwin—and she had a very special reason. A brother, in Calgary, was recently seriously injured in an automobile accident and received a number of blood transfusions. Mrs. Colbert was anxious to do what she could to repay those who made it possible to perhaps save his life.

Altogether 120 people gave their blood here in the afternoon and evening sessions and it is not by any means a record.

WETASKIWIN HELPS

Local staff conveners were Mrs. T. Palfrey, Mrs. T. Grierson and Mrs. L. B. Yule. Secretaries were Mrs. S. Cole, Mrs. A. Cowell, Mrs. F. Frederickson. Mrs. T. Short was receptionist in the afternoon. Others assisting were Mrs. W. Recknagle, Mrs. W. Vassar, Mrs. Stafford, Mrs. Chaffee, Mrs. Neilson, Mrs. D. Ross, Mrs. W. Adams, Mrs. N. White, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Rossander and Mrs. Sims.

Helping in the evening were Mrs. H. Newby, Mrs. W. Recknagle, Mrs. R. Layton, Mrs. D. MacEachern, Mrs. R. Blythe, Mrs. N. Ragoson, Mrs. R. Beguin, Mrs. Beaton, Mrs. W. Gillespie, Mrs. J. Malden, Miss P. Rasmusson and Miss D. Oswald. Girl guides assisting were Marilyn Massing, Mary Harris, Hazel Tanne and Marlene Rehaume.

Wetaskiwin Prepares For Bigger Fair

WETASWIKIN, Aug. 22 — The 1949 Wetaskiwin and District Agricultural Fair was officially wound up on Thursday when a meeting of the association was held in the council chamber. W. J. Pickard, Manager, made his report.

Association carried the burden of expense as no entry fees were charged, neither was there any admission charged, but from the standpoint of interest shown, it surpassed expectations. The board wished to ascertain whether people of the city and district really wanted an annual fair and that they do was amply demonstrated.

As a result the association will prepare for a bigger and better show in 1950, hoping that by that time there will be proper accommodation for livestock entries.

Mr. Pickard expressed his appreciation of the assistance given him by committee chairmen and their committees. He mentioned also the extensive work which had fallen to the secretary, Mrs. R. Kirkwood.

Mr. Pickard said the constant support and assistance given by the president, R. Recknagle was a very large contributing factor to the success fo the fair. The manager referred to various organizations and individuals who contributed special awards and who assisted in other ways.

Veteran Wins Holding Award

ECKVILLE, Aug. 22.—Russell E. Eastman, Eckville implement dealer, has just been advised his "small holding" was awarded a prize in the Dominion-wide small holding development competition.

In a letter the district supervisor stated Mr. Eastman's was adjudged one of the most outstanding under Veteran's Land Act establishments in Canada and complimented him on his planning and industry.

The prize of $18, while not large, was tendered in a spirit of appreciation for the example shown and as encouragement for other veterans in the community.

Mr. Eastman is a veteran of four years in the Canadian army and his property is located just north of the town.

Vegreville Arranges For X-Ray Work

VEGREVILLE, Aug. 22—By arrangement with the management of the Vegreville General Hospital and the six local physicians and surgeons, Doctors Malcolmson and Clare, both of Edmonton, have assumed supervision of X-ray work of a specialized nature arising in the Vegreville district. Together with expert technicians they will preside over the X-ray department of the Vegreville hospital each Wednesday for the purpose of handling such cases as may be referred to them by local practitioners.

Another improvement at this institution is the enlargement of the dispensary which has now been placed under the management of C. W. King, a registered pharmacist, who will hereafter act as purchasing agent for the hospital.

All WI Groups Attend Didsbury Conference

DIDSBURY, Aug. 22—Over 100 attended the constituency conference of Women's Institutes held at Didsbury. All seven groups were represented and in addition two girls clubs, Bancroft Buttercups and Rugby Bluebells sent delegates.

Mrs. Jack Robertson, constituency convenor presided and Mrs. Ruth Eckel of Lone Pine WI. gave the address of welcome, which was replied to by Mrs. Sara Shultz of Cremona.

Splendid reports were given both by the secretaries of the branches and conveners of standing committees. Mrs. A. B. McGorman of Penhold, provincial WI president and Mrs. T. Howes, of Millet, director for No. 3 district, addressed the meeting.

Two cancer films were shown by Mrs. Bray of the Cancer Clinic, Calgary.

In the election of officers for the ensuing year, Mrs. J. Robertson was named constituency convener. Committee heads named were: social services, Mrs. Sara Shultz, Cremona; social welfare, Mrs. John Bruce, Mountain View; home economics, Mrs. W. EARLY WHEAT DELIVERY RECORD SET

RED DEER, Aug. 22—Record for early wheat delivery, was established in the Red Deer district, when the first load of the 1949 harvest was brought in to the National Grain elevator, on morning of August 18. The wheat, which graded 1 C. W. Garnet, came from Roy Weil's farm, three miles south-east of Red Deer and was hauled by Ross Tomalty.

The grain was from a crop that yielded slightly better than 30 bushels to the acre, which is certainly far ahead of the acerage around Red Deer, this year.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Meat Price Slide Starts Right Now

Huzzah! Wave high the banner of hope!

Meat prices are starting a welcome tumble somewhat ahead of schedule.

Fair shipments of grain-fed cattle will be on the market by September and prices were slated for a drop then. But in anticipation, local butchers, packers and distributors have seen fit to take pity on the poor ol' budgeters and moderate the retail meat prices somewhat.

• • •

Once again you see "special" signs in the shop windows, Once again you see wider varieties of meat, the better to seel it m'dear.

Baby beef round steak, juicy and inviting sells today at 48c per pound—now ain't that somethin'?

• • •

Veal roasts, leg, lean and lucsious looking sell for a comparitive song at 45c per pound. Now this, in all cases, is an easily perceptible change in the price make-up of meats.

The forecast issued this week with the news of the upcoming cattle surplus states a peak in production in mid-October. By then, perhaps we'll be able to buy a steak and pay the rent too.

• • •

Huge, ripe and glossy-black blackberries arrived for eating and jam or jelly making to sell at 35c per basket. I was happy as a little clam to see them . . . . but sorry I can't say the same for some egg plant I encountered in browsing . . . . never could be enthusiastic about egg plant.

But for them as likes the nastly stuff it's available at 30c per pound and 33c per pound . . . . the ugly, purple vitamin-packed vegetable.

• • •

It's more fun than enough these days shopping in the open market. With my wicker basket tucked over the crook of my freckled arm I march merrily away to the fruit and vegetable marts as often as we can gobble up the goodies . . . . which is fairly often

• • •

[illegible] made its appearance snowy-white cauliflower fills row upon row. Bright carrots, lima beans, spinach, [illegible] white and green celery, [illegible] lettuce leaves, radishes, [illegible] even white sweet Spanish onions are displayed colorfully and attractively.

Sweet golden corn on the cob is selling at a pleasant low of half a dozen ears for 27c these mid-summer days. Everything's hunky-dory in the fresh vegetable gardens.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Today's Children Don't Act As They Please

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

You've heard innumerable persons say, "Oh, I have no use for these new ideas about child-rearing, children do just as they please."

This is one of those confused statements which the uninitiated swallow and repeat. Usually the person talking is past the child-rearing age, or has never had any children.

What they do not recognize is that a parent knows about how children act and why they act as they do, the less reason there is for drastic, painful punishments. Discipline they need, but discipline is another concept entirely.

Life itself is a discipline, for in living everyone discovers that he cannot do as he pleases and live in society.

The parent is the child's guide and teacher in what kind of behaviour society will permit and it's obvious, when that is recognized, that no child can do as he pleases in any home. There are bound to be penalties for conduct which displeases the rest of the family or is opposed to what is good for everyone, in or out of the family.

But, the emphasis today is different. Now, we do not try to beat children into a mold of behaviour which is devised and believed convenient for the parent. In the old days, when a parent literally held the whip-hand over a child, everything that displeased the parent was punished by making the child suffer physically for it.

Today the child needs the same guidance; he may need such punishment for flagrant meanness, wilfulness or disobedience, but it may not be in the form of whipping or slapping. It may be merely an explanation, or a temporary isolation from the family or friends, or a deprivation of some treat; something which will impress the child with the nature of his misconduct, but without making him antagonistic toward the authority which is imposing the punishment.

It is the duty of parents to act in ways which the child can imitate. It is their obligation to tell the child what he can and cannot do—and children respect parents who are firm in upholding right principles.

And, most of all, parents must understand growth and development of children so that they are familiar with the type of conduct which accompanies each stage. Then, they will be much more lenient with natural behavior, without altering one whit their zeal in upholding the right and the proper.

Our leaflet No. 75 "Obedience and Punishment," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Canadians are apparently well supplied with reading matter; there are 1,811 publications printed in Canada.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Unhappiness In Work No Excuse for Suicide

Dear Miss Dix: Would you consider suicide justifiable under the following circumstances? I am a highly trained man in a very specialized field demanding college and graduate training, and am successful in my profession.

I am very happily married and have two fine children, both young. But I am utterly miserable because I simply can't continue in my present vocation. If I try to continue it will mean a terrific nervous strain which will make our home life miserable, react unfavorable on the children and terminate in a complete collapse on my part.

There are many factors that make it difficult for me to get in different work, but the real complication is in the fact that I know my wife married me because of what I was doing.

She loves me but the one big element in that love is her devotion to the thing my work represents.

X

ANSWER: I think that your is the craziest letter that has ever come to this department. Possibly there are conditions under which suicide may be justified, but certainly no man in your position has the faintest excuse for taking his own life. You are a coward and a quitter even to think of such a thing.

As you put the case, you are contemplating killing yourself merely because you don't like the kind of work you are doing, and because you think it will upset the family for you to make a change to something that will pay less well.

Do you think that it will upset the family less to have a suicide in it than it will to have you give up your job? It is rather a shocking thing to have father blow out his brains or turn on the gas.

Nor does it add to the prestige of children to have a suicide father in the background.

As for thinking that your wife can remarry into the profession you seem to think she has her heart set on, that's highly problematical unless you are carrying a good life insurance.

I'm betting dollars to doughnuts, Mr. X, that what's the matter with you is that you are afraid of your wife, and that is why you would rather kill yourself than tell her that you are going to leave a distasteful occupation and do the kind of work you like to do

Give up the work that is driving your crazy and try something else, but don't make the change via the suicide route. You may find that you have jumped out of the frying pan into the fire

Artifical Gold

LONDON—(CP)—The dream of ancient alchemists—of making gold artificially—has now been brought about. Sir John Cockroft, director of Britain's atomic research establishment, said a small amount of gold has already been made, but added, "Since we have to start from platinum and the process is rather expensive we are not likely to put the gold mines out of operation in the foreseeable future."

FRIEND AND HELPER

Stamp Collecting is An Informative Hobby

Dear Tawasis:

Stamp collecting is an interesting and absorbing hobby. Maybe you already have made a start on such a collection, but if you haven't it is never too late to begin. Try it soon.

[illegible] you may begin your collection. An interested friend may give you some stamps and you can always take stamps from letters coming to your house. But though these are good ways of adding to your col[illegible] different ways the collection grows and you will be surprised as just how quickly it does grow.

If you want to be proud of your [illegible] be valuable never put any torn, dirty or damaged stamps in it. You should also avoid those that have been heavily postmarked.

Now that you have decided to be a philatelist, which means a stamp collector, you will require an album. Don't buy an expensive one when you are beginning but be tidy and orderly in the arrangement you use.

Before the stamps are stuck into the album you should take the paper off the backs but don't just drop them into water because many are printed with inks that will run.

The best way to remove the paper is to arrange a number of stamps, backs up, on a sheet of clean blotting paper and then to paint the backs with warm water. When you have peeled away the paper, press the stamps between dry blotting paper.

Now you can sort the stamps into countries and when you have done that take each country and arrange the stamps in the order of their age—the oldest ones first and the recent ones last. Since it isn't easy to tell the age just from looking at the stamp the best method is to consult a stamp catalogue. You can always get one from the public library.

After arranging your stamps correctly you can put them into the album. You do this with hinges, thin strips of paper that are gummed on one side. Fold the strip across the middle, gummed surface outwards, and then moisten [illegible] will be.

Sincerely,

Joan Walker

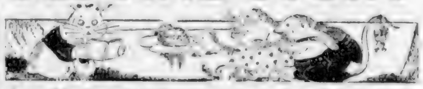
BEDTIME STORY



By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When a person becomes uneasy and cannot settle in one place for any length of time, but wants to keep travelling, he is said to be possessed of the wandering foot. This means that he wants to wander about in search of new scenes and new adventures. To put it very plainly, he becomes a sort of tramp.

THE WANDERER

You remember that when Billy Mink discovered the traps along the Laughing Brook, he decided that he would go visiting for a while. For some time he had felt a desire to go visiting. These traps [illegible]

Now, while Billy Mink is a great lover of the water and is almost as much at home in it as Jerry Muskrat, he is equally at home on land. In fact, Billy often wanders long distances from water. He believes in variety and there are times when he would rather hunt than fish. He is a very good hunter, as many a mouse and bird has found out too late.

So, leaving the brook where the fishing was poor, Billy started off across country for nowhere in particular. He is one of the most independent of all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. He never [illegible] where the next meal is coming from. He feels quite capable of taking care of himself wherever he may be. No one understands the art of hiding any better than does Billy Mink. He is quick as a flash, and the way he can disappear when apparently there is nothing to hide under is astonishing.

A DISCOVERY

So Billy wandered about [illegible] containing many hens. [illegible] woodpile [illegible] the sort of a place he liked. [illegible] know he is so slim that he can slip through very small places, and he knew that in that woodpile he would be quite safe.

"This place looks good to me," said Billy, "I think I'll stay a while."

Dutchman Begins Channel Swim

CALAIS, France, Aug. 22 — (BUP)—Dick Schermer, 21-year old Dutch swimmer, slipped into the water at nearby Map Gris-Nez at 6.35 p.m. tonight and began his attempt to swim the English channel.

His goal was Dover, England, 21 miles away. The Dutch student set out despite predictions that the sea might roughen tonight.

How They Cool Off in India Should Give Us Some Ideas

By Robert Branson

NEW DELHI, Aug. 22.—(UP)—If you can't take hot weather, you might try some home made heat remedies that were invented in India a long time before anyone thought of electric refrigerators or air conditioning.

The treatment, as prescribed by the ancient Hindu medical system known as Ayurveda, calls for buttermilk, lemons, almonds and green mangoes.

You start the day with a buttermilk drink called "lassi." It is the most popular breakfast drink in India during the hot months, and it's made by whipping buttermilk, cold water and salt into a white froth.

It looks like a vanilla milkshake and tastes like cottage cheese. Taken in the morning, an Ayurvedic practioner explained, it "cools the blood" and "prepares the system."

LEMONS COOLING

Before lunch you drink a mixture of lemon juice, sugar and water. The summer popularity of lemon all over the world is no accident, according to Ayurveda. Hindus believe firmly in the "indigenous cooling powers" of the lemon.

In mid-afternoon you drink a cloudy combination of ground almonds, water and a little sugar. The almonds, soaked and peeled the night before, should be crushed into a paste just before the water is added.

At bedtime you have a mango shake. This takes more doing. The mangoes should be young and green, and they have to be baked in an oven beforehand. Then the dried meat is crushed and powdered, mixed with sugar or salt (or both) and stirred into a tall glass of cold water.

Ayurvedic physicians don't support their formulas with any real scientific proof. But they invite skeptics to try them and see.

EVAPORATION DOES IT

For cold drinking water, most Indians still depend on an ancient and ingenious kind of jug called the "chatti." Moisture seeps through the porous earthenware of the jug and evaporates, and the evaporation chills the water inside.

It works as well in the scorching Indian sun as in the shade. You can set a chatti outdors at noon and in an hour or so the water will be as cool as a mountainbrook.

Indians use a similar evaporation principle to cool their houses and offices. Windows and doors are covered with mats of thick, heavy grass known as "khus-khus" and soaked with water. Hot air passing through them is cooled several degrees.

Bear Hunted Near Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Submachine guns, rifles and pistols were toted today as police, reinforced by residents of the Shirley's Bay cottage area, hunted unsuccessfully for a big black bear.

The hunt was touched off when four girls picking berries Saturday night came upon the bear, estimated to weigh about 400 pounds. The family's collie dog gave chase and the bear lumbered off while the girls, Margie, Marylin, Avis and Sylvania Kidd, fled in the other direction.

The animal was sighted today near the Shirley's Bay road, about 10 miles west of Ottawa, by a provincial police patrol car.

Dogs were used to trail the bear and tracks were found in several swampy areas but the animal managed to evade the hunters.

12 Convicts Recaptured

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 22—(UP)—Only one of 13 criminally insane convicts was still at large today after a daylight escape from the criminal ward of the state asylum.

A widespread search was underway for William Cochran, 30, believed to have stolen a Ford convertible. All his companions in the escape were back in their cells.

The men slipped one by one, with soap in their bodies to make it easier, through a small bathroom window yesterday. Hospital business manager George Macfarlin saw them running past his house and sounded the alarm.

Officers and hospital guards immediately began a roundup that continued until late in the night, catching nearly all of the men on the hospital grounds. Two of them were convicted murderers, and a third had killed a guard in a previous attempt to escape.

POST-CAPONE PERIOD TAME

Chicago's Gangland Sure Ain't What it Used To Be

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—There has been a change in Chicago's underworld.

You don't hear the bang, bang of gang pistols and machine-guns nearly as often as you did 20 years ago. But there are other, and more subtle, differences between the era of Al Capone and the present time.

Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission, a civic agency that has been the city's "watch-dog of crime" for 30 years, compares the two periods.

"There isn't as much Wild West style shooting among gang elements as during the '20s and '30s," he says. "There still are killings, but not to the same extent."

The federal bureau of investigation reported Chicago had 326 murders in 1948. That was the highest number for any city in the United States. But—and this is one of big points of difference between the Capone and post-Capone periods—only a few of them were mob jobs.

The commission's files showed that gang murders averaged 55 a year in the violent 1926-32 epoch. The number was down to seven in 1946, three in 1947, 10 in 1948 and only two in the first half of this year.

There were as many gang murders on one day in 1929 as there were in one recent year, 1946. Seven men were executed by a firing squad in a north-side garage on St. Valentine's day 20 years ago.

"During the Capone gang heyday operations were much more brazen than today," Peterson said. "Many political figures then found it expedient to be known as friends of hoodlums. That isn't true now."

"Gambling, the main source of gang revenue, has been whittled down," Peterson said. "There used to be seven joints within a short walk of my office in the loop. They're gone now. There still is gambling but not on the old scale."

OIL

Gulf Adds Two At Redwater

By Don Flach

Two additional wells have been completed in the Redwater field for the Gulf Oil Company, the company's newly-opened production office disclosed today. They are Jeffrey No. 1 and Bigoray No. 12, bringing the company's Redwater producers to 13.

In initial production tests, the Jeffrey well yielded 362 barrels during a 21-hour run. Bigoray 12 gave 408 barrels in a 24-hour run.

Bigoray 2 is rigging as is No. 7. No. 8 is drilling at 1,200 feet.

At Stettler, Gulf Bauer No. 4 is drilling at 4,234 feet. Fred Schrempp at Pincher Creek with bottom near 12,000 feet is readying to run 5,700 feet of 9⅝ inch casing from the bottom of the surface casing at 600 feet.

PACALTA CORING

At Whitemud, New Pacalta is nearing the expected production level and is continuing to core at 4,062 feet. Hargal No. 2 is on production, but is having difficulty getting flow through the tubing. In test runs the well has averaged 13 barrels hourly and has produced up to 40 barels hourly during peak flow. Gas ratio at the well is low, averaging about 350 cubic feet to the barrel.

In Turner Valley, Home Nos. 36 and 37 are at 5,180 and 2,849 feet respectively. They are the only wells drilling in the area.

Royalite Rosecam is topping the D2 at 3,853 feet. Royalite Stony Plain is drilling at 4,163 feet and Royalite Texaco [illegible] was spudded over the week-end three miles south and five miles west of Hobbema and is drilling at 398 feet.

South Brazeau-North Continental wildcat at Hanna which got a gas blow of 25,000,000 cubic feet daily in a test last Friday afternoon is now boring ahead to the top of the lime where casing will be set. Oil showings were obtained in the test.

ELLERSLIE 1 AT 5,310

No signs of oil have yet been encountered at Mutual Ellerslie No. 1 which is drilling at 5,310 feet.

Pan Western Millet No. 1 has drilled 15-inch hole to 550 feet and is getting ready to run surface casing.

Pacific Calahoo is drilling ahead at 1,583 feet. Pacific Fort Saskatchewan is drilling at 3,681 feet. In a drillstem test of the interval from 3,498 to 3,585 feet lasting for 15 minutes this well recovered 2,250 feet of salt water and 130 feet of drilling mud.

Bear Mustang is drilling at 2,966 feet, Parkford at 5,180 feet. Bear Beaumont is coring at 1,962 feet and PASC Redwater 6-10B is standing cemented to 3,270 feet with bottom at 3,283 feet.

Lead Demand Remains Strong

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Price confusion in the thriving lead market ended this week when the principal producer advanced its quotation to the going custom smelter level.

Sales of copper and prime western zinc continued heavy, with prices firm.

St. Joseph Lead Company's hike of ⅛ of a cent a pound for lead on Thursday brought its St. Louis basis price to 14.925 cents—equivalent to the New York price of 15.125 established by a leading custom smelter on Aug. 8.

Demand for lead was strong throughout the week. Several trade sources said the anxious scramble for supplies evidenced by buyers earlier this month had relaxed noticeably. But lead sales so far for August shipment indicate that total business for the month may even top the year's high of last January.

Stocks Go Lower In Brisk Trading

Golds Rally Toward Close; Only Slight Changes in Oils

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Prices tended lower in brisk dealings on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A few issues featured in activity accounted for a large share of the day's heavy volume. Industrials showed fractional losses as the session progressed and base metals and western oils were lower.

Golds steadied from early weakness. Volume was about 1,150,000 shares.

Union Gas continued to hold the spotlight in industrials, turning briskly for a new high at 15½. Papers eased and steels firmed slightly in moderately active dealings. Foods, constructions, refining oils and liquors were mixed.

Upper Canada Mines and Duvay Mines featured golds.

Western oils were narrow with a few key issues slipping slightly.

Trend is Down At New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Stock traders started the week in low gear today, with neither buyers or sellers showing any startling difference of opinion on the subject of prices.

A clear majority of leading issues changed hands at lower levels. Losses were mostly in minor fractions, though, and numerous stocks remained unchanged or eked out small gains.

Turnover was at a rate of around 750,000 shares for the full session, the smallest in a week.

The tendency toward lower levels, slight as it was, was a continuation of a trend which started late Thursday and picked up a little momentum on Friday. Prior to the dip the general price level had reeached within hailing distance of a peak for the year.

A trifle higher were General Motors, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, International Harvester, American Woollen, Chesapeake and Ohio, Gulf Oil and Eastern Air Lines.

Canadian issues were lower. Hiram Walker dropped ⅝, Canadian Pacific fell ¼ and Dome Mines and Distillers Seagrams each eased ⅛.

On the Curb, Lake Shore eased ⅛ and Giant Yellowknife was unchanged. Union Gas of Canada was up a fraction.

Gains, Losses Evenly Divided

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Fractional gains and losses were fairly evenly distributed on the board near the final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market today. Mines were lower but losses were generally penny losses.

Base Metals were the weakest group on the board while beverages, utilities and senior oils were mixed. Steels were firmer.

Noranda, Consolidated Smelters and International Nickel were down fractions ranging from ¼ to ¾.

National Breweries and Seagrams slipped down and Sick's advanced ⅛. Winnipeg Electric moved up ½.

In senior and western oils McColl and Royalite were ahead and Imperial Oil and Gaspe Oil Ventures were down.

United Kingdom Gets Big Wheat Allocation

WINNIPEG, Aug. 22—(CP)—The United Kingdom was allocated about 900,000 bushels of wheat at the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

In the coarse grains futures market, fair shipper demand appeared in oats and offerings were in the form of hedge sales which were liberal and well-absorbed.

Barley trading was light with a fair demand. Offerings here, too, were light. Buying was not aggressive and prices declined in sympathy with rye prices in the Chicago market. There were similar declines in rye where there was fair buying house orders.

Girl Slaying Suspect Seen

WINNIPEG, Aug. 22—(CP)—Police said today a man believed to be Donald Henderson, 33, of Clive, Alta., wanted in Calgary on charge of murder, was seen leaving a car on Stella Ave., in north-end Winnipeg, early Thursday.

Henderson's automobile, out of gasoline and bearing stolen license plates, was found abandoned at about the same spot later the same day.

A woman reported seeing the man, whom she was unable to describe, leaving the car at about 3 a.m.

Finding of the car was first positive indication given police the wanted man was in Winnipeg. Western Canadian police have been seeking Henderson since the body of his fiancee, Yvonne Levesque, 24, of Pincher Creek, was discovered Aug. 11 in an East Calgary auto camp.

Four Missing In East Fire

STE. THERESE, Que., Aug. 22—(CP)—Four persons are missing and dozens of summer cottages and farm houses are threatened by a wide-ranging brush and forest fire which is burning out of control in this area 30 miles northeast of Montreal, army authorities reported here today.

Hundreds of army men from Montreal and other points in the province are being rushed into the area to fight the fire, which started in a military proving ground near here.

SHELLS EXPLODE

The fire in the proving ground, which touched off many "dud" shells buried in the ground, was brought under control this morning. A change in wind, however, swept the fire toward summer residences and farm homes around Terrebonne and Terrebonne Heights.

They said the fire had cut the main highway from Ste. Therese to Terrebonne and was threatening the village of Pincourt. Terrebonne is about 20 miles northeast of Ste. Therese.

The brush fire, believed to have been started Saturday night by careless berry pickers, swept into the proving range of the No. 34 depot of the Canadian Ordnance Corps early Sunday morning and sent thousands of the dud 20 millimetre shells exploding into the air.

Nearby villagers in St. Therese, St. Lin, Pont David and Terrebonne county evacuated their homes and sought refuge in fields behind rocks as the terrific roar from the exploding shells thundered throughout the night and the following day.

NAMED assistant general traffic manager for Canadian Pacific Railway, George F. Buckingham will have headquarters at Montreal. For the past two and one-half years he had been freight traffic manager, prairie and Pacific regions.

Chicago Grain Closes Lower

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Grains failed today in an attempt to continue the strong advance of last week. After moving ahead fractionally in the first hour, the market reversed itself and headed down.

Trading was dull most of the session, but picked up a little speed toward the close, when selling pressure increased. September wheat dropped under $2 on the late selling. Soybeans fell several cents after inching out seasonal highs in early trade.

Wheat closed ⅛-1⅜ lower, corn was unchanged to ½ lower, oats were ⅛-¼ lower, rye was ¾-1¼ lower, and soybeans were 3 to 3½ lower.

Cash wheat: No. 3 red 1.91½. Corn: No. 1 yellow 1.26¾-27½; oats: No. 1 mixed 62½-65¾; barley nominal: malting 1.12-42.

Penitentiary Term Following Request

An Edmonton man who received his 44th conviction in criminal court Saturday asked for a penitentiary sentence instead of a jail sentence.

Harvey I. E. Todd asked for an extra day to be added to his two-years-less-one-day sentence so that he might serve time at federal penitentiary instead of at Fort Saskatchewan jail.

Judge J. P. McIsaac granted his request.

Already serving a sentence at the Fort for being drunk while on the interdict list, Todd was convicted of stealing a wrist watch on June 6.

Second charge of stealing a suitcase was dismissed.

SUBMITS LIST

Acting crown prosecutor W. J. K. Shortreed submitted the accused man's criminal record to the court, showing 43 convictions dating back to 1934.

Evidence given at trial disclosed that Todd had taken the watch from the wrist of a companion and given it as a pledge for an 80-cent taxi fare after drinking.

Defence counsel R. J. Hazlett said all the accused's trouble arose from his taste for alcohol.

Judge McIsaac rejected a leniency plea because it had proven no use before.

Mr. Hazlett was appointed to act for defence when Todd said he had no lawyer and requested one. Judge McIsaac commented there seemed to be too great a tendency to impose on the fact that the crown appoints lawyers in some cases.

$700 Stolen From Oilman

Theft of over $700 from an Edmonton district oil worker was reported to police over the week-end.

Clarence Unrah told police the money was stolen from his room in a downtown hotel sometime Sunday night. Unrah was asleep in the unlocked room at the time.

An American serviceman is named as a possible suspect. He is believed to have since left the city en route to Alaska.

The sum was made up of $221 in two cheques and the remainder in bills.

Unrah is employed by Commonwealth Drilling Company.

Tidal Power Project Worries Fundy Folk

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—(CP)—Now that a Passamaquoddy tidal power project is under official discussion once more, the fishing industry has again rallied to protect its interests in New Brunswick's neighboring Charlotte County.

The industry is that area returned $3,546,000 to fishermen last year and wages of $1,900,000 to others. Canned fish products were valued at $6,150,000 and capital investment amounted to $4,850,000.

This is the stake that local opponents of Quoddy fear will be endangered if the long dream of harnessing Maine and New Brunswick tidal power ever becomes an actuality.

They have an official estimate of what might happen. A survey in 1934 showed that 2½ per cent of the herring fisheries in the Bay of Funday region are within the areas which would be dammed. Some opponents believe there would also be damage outside these areas.

FULL SURVEY ASKED

The importance of a further, similar survey was stressed at St. Andrews, N.B., in testimony before the International Joint Commission which is making a preliminary study into the cost of a detailed survey of the feasibility and total cost of the huge project.

The St. John, N.B., board of trade takes a stand typical of the average reaction when Quoddy is mentioned in connection with the admitted need for more power for New England and New Brunswisk.

The board favors a further investigation to settle for all time the question of the project's feasibility. It would approve the development if fisheries interests were compensated, if necessary, and if the cost of developing Quoddy power were lower than that of producing energy by other means.

GREAT HERRING SOURCE

The Bay of Funday is one of the world's principal herring sources, resulting in a great fish-packing industry at Black's Harbor, N.B., and plants elsewhere along the Fundy coast, including Maine.

In any event, no change in the fishing ground situation because of Quoddy is apparent for the immediate future. Years elapsed between the time of the idea's first promotion and the 1936 abandonment by the United States of its short-lived and comparatively small experiment. If the preliminary study indicates the feasibility of a complete investigation, with the latter also favorable, more years would pass while Canadian and United States legislators debated the matter and construction work proceeded—if finally authorized.

In July, 1948, revenues were $41,801,000; expenses $50,124,000 and the net operating deficit $8,323,000. In releasing the July results of operations, the railway company states, that the July 1948 figures included provision for wage increases retroactive to March 1 of that year.
